CEMETERY TO BE SOLD

Negotiations on to Transfer St. Peter's Burying Grounds for Addition to St. Patrick's

Negotiations are pending for the sale of St. Peter's cemetery, now the property of a syndicate, to His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell. Judge Thomas J. Enright is representing Rt. Rev. Mgr. William O'Brien, who is acting in the interests of the cardinal in the matter of this sale.

St. Peter's cemetery comprises 20 acres of land and is located off Spencer street and the Boston road, in the rear of St. Patrick's cemetery. It is believed that it is the intention of the cardinal to add this to St. Patrick's cemetery. For the holders of the cemetery the negotiations are in the hands of Mr. Henry J. O'Dowd, a local insurance man, residing at 423 High street. Others interested in the cemetery at present are Joseph P. Cavanaugh of Manchester, Harry Raynes of Lowell and Joseph Molloy of Lowell. It is understood that an agreement as to price has been reached and that nothing now delays the transfer but the matter of looking up the title.

THE POLITICAL FIELD

The Local Campaign Closes in a Whirlwind of Rallies This Evening—All Candidates Busy

The polls for the city primaries will open at 12 m. tomorrow and close at 8 p. m. Despite the fact that it has been many times explained, the inquiry comes again as to how many candidates the voter is entitled to vote for.

For mayor, you may vote for one, and no more. For alderman, you may vote for two and no more. For school committee, you may vote for two and no more. Women, privileged to vote for school committees, should bear in mind that they can vote for only two candidates as a number of ballots were rendered null and void last year because of the fact that more than two candidates were voted for.

City Clerk Flynn requests that all precinct officers be at their respective precincts not later than 11.45 o'clock tomorrow and have everything in readiness so there may be no delay when the polls open at the noon hour, 12 o'clock.

The last registration session for the city election will be held Wednesday, and the hours for registration will be from 12 o'clock, noon, until 10 p. m.

Noon Day Rallies

Candidates for office spoke at various points throughout the city at the noon hour today and most of them spoke to large and attentive audiences. Mayor O'Donnell spoke at the entrance to the

SEC. BRYAN INVESTIGATES MASSACRE OF AMERICANS

Report Revived That Huerta Intends to Resign—Pres. Wilson Will Not Withdraw Embassy

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—The report was revived this afternoon that General Huerta intends to resign on the convening of congress in regular session on Thursday. It was based on an alleged declaration by a member of the new chamber of deputies.

AMERICANS ARRIVED AT VERA CRUZ—ALDAPE ALSO REACHED ABOVE PLACE

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 17.—Eight American families arrived here from Mexico City this morning and reported that a general exodus was beginning. Many of them are expected to arrive tonight and a much greater number tomorrow morning.

Manuel Garza Aldape, who recently resigned his office as minister of the interior in the Mexican cabinet, arrived here this morning from Mexico City and went on board the steamer Espagne accompanied by his wife and children. He was escorted to the quay by the local officials.

In reply to questions he would only say he was proceeding to Paris to take up his duties as Mexican minister to France.

despatches touching the situation and no indication was given in these indications of Washington toward Mexico. There was considerable gossip in political circles today of further prospective changes in the Mexican cabinet. Gen. Aureliano Blanquet, the minister of war, was said to have had a misunderstanding with President Huerta which might cause him to leave his post.

With the departure of Manuel Garza Aldape, late minister of the interior, foreigners here feel that the cabinet has lost a member whose moderation could be depended upon. His successor has not yet been indicated.

In the meantime Gen. Huerta is proceeding with his efforts to organize the new congress regardless of the notice given to him by John Lind, the personal representative of President Wilson, that serious consequences would follow such a step. It was expected that serious consequences would follow such a step. It was expected that serious consequences would follow such a step.

To My Fellow Citizens:

Again I request your attention to the caucuses tomorrow and respectfully solicit your endorsement of my administration as Mayor—

BECAUSE, I have fairly and faithfully endeavored to discharge the various and onerous duties incumbent upon me as your chief executive, and

BECAUSE, I realized at all times and upon all occasions, however exalted or however humble, that the dignity of the office had to be maintained and the honor conferred upon me respected, and

BECAUSE, I felt that the good name of our city as a manufacturing and civic centre should always be upheld and that those who would dare traduce it, whether for self or patronage, should be repudiated and condemned, and

BECAUSE, I have devoted my entire time to the duties of the office, sacrificing personal pleasures and professional profits, in order that my first term as mayor should equal, if not exceed in efficiency the highest standard obtained by any of my illustrious predecessors, and

BECAUSE, I am impelled to believe that my efforts to serve my native city as its chief executive have borne substantial results, honorable alike to me and to you, notwithstanding the billingsgate of those who would now minimize and revile me, and

BECAUSE, the spirit of fair play and a regard for the time honored custom of bestowing a second term as the reward of faithful stewardship justifies me in the belief that you will accord me by your votes tomorrow such an endorsement as will fittingly rebuke those who would rely upon calumny for campaign material.

ASSAULTED IN STATE HOSPITAL

Attendant at Tewksbury Fined for Assault on Boy

Case Was Heard in Court Today—Other Cases Disposed of

There was something doing out at the Tewksbury hospital last Saturday afternoon and the matter was thrashed out in police court this morning before Judge Enright. Thomas Grant was charged with assault and battery upon fifteen year old William Letourneau and pleaded not guilty. The complaint was taken out by Dr. George A. Pierce, superintendent of the hospital.

The boy was the first witness and, in response to questions from Supt. Welch told the story in detail. It appears that the defendant is employed in the culinary department at the hospital and meets the inmates more or less while going about his duties.

William, once that he got up his courage, talked very volubly of the affair. He said that he and Grant did not get along very well. Just prior to the assault he testified that he and the defendant were having an argument and that the latter had called him several wicked names.

The defendant was then given the privilege of asking the boy any question which might have a bearing upon the case. "Did you call me any vile names?" asked Grant. "Yes," answered the youngster, "I called you a bone-head."

The court, after the defendant had testified, was inclined to believe that the boy had roundly abused Grant before the assault. Dr. Pierce also stepped forward with the information that the boy had been moved from one ward to another on account of his violence. When Judge Enright heard this he called Sir William to the bench and gave him a severe lecture.

The court found that an assault had been committed by the defendant but inasmuch as the latter was goaded into his hasty action by the vile taunts of the boy he only fined him $10. Grant paid without any hesitancy.

When the case of Ora Debuco and Joseph Goulet, charged with a grave statutory offence, was called for trial the husband of the woman took the stand and gave a very graphic description of the affair which has brought sorrow and disgrace upon himself and his four little children. The man trembled as he gave his evidence and his voice broke several times during his stay on the witness stand.

The husband, together with Inspectors McLaughlin and Petrie, found his wife and the other defendant in a room in the Spaulding block Saturday about 8.30 o'clock in the

ITS 75TH ANNIVERSARY

THE GRACE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

Observed by Grace Church—Addresses by Mr. H.H. Harris and Several Clergymen

The founding of the Grace Universalist church society was celebrated yesterday, its 75th anniversary, at the morning and evening services of that church in the Highlands. Rev. Charles Conklin, D. D., superintendent of Massachusetts, spoke at the morning service and there were remarks suitable to the occasion by Rev. C. R. Skinner. The music by the quartet choir was of unusual excellence, but the main part of the observance was a splendid historical address by Mr. Henry H. Harris, who has been a member of the church since it was called the Second Universalist. His address follows:

My Blood

"Seemed thin, poor, without any sustaining strength. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA gave me the appetite needed, restored strength, gave me natural, healthful sleep." Mrs. C. K. Tyler, Burlington, Vt.

"MY BLOOD was in bad condition. I had erysipelas on my hands, the left one so bad I had it in a sling 3 months. I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my hand, for when I had used 5 bottles it was all healed up and I felt better every way." Mrs. Alice Stockwell, Worcester, Mass.

"I tell my friends who are beset with dark-brown feelings that Hood's Sarsaparilla will set them up and make them full of life and health. I always feel like 21 after taking a course of this medicine." J. D. Gates, Chicago business man, 610 So. State St. It is HOOD'S that helps.

ship by the Rev. O. A. Skinner, a distant relative of our present much beloved pastor.

It was in the Rev. Mr. Thompson's pastorate that the society erected its first church home, the dedication of which we are remembering today. Mr. Thompson took great interest and an active personal part in the plans and construction of the new building, as is testified to in a letter written last year by his daughter, Mrs. W. S. Clark, of Greenfield, Mass. Mrs. Clark writes: "As a child, I remember the meetings were in a hall, while the church was building, and I recall how busy and interested my father was in making some of the architectural drawings. We children were not welcome in the room, when he was thus occupied."

The first meeting for consultation about the new edifice was held at the home of Otis Bullard, one of the prominent members of the prudential committee. How well I remember him! How many times have I, as a boy, listened to him in the Sunday evening meetings, when he would tell the need of truth and righteousness in both public and private living, and appeal for more idealism of thought and aspiration. We will let the Rev. Mr. Thompson tell the story of that meeting and the subsequent doings, in his own words:

"We met at Brother Bullard's. We sat up around a common three-and-a-half foot table, and talked all the evening, and when we separated, we each felt that we had made a beginning, indeed, but a very small one. We continued to meet and discuss through the ensuing winter, and early in the spring of 1838 we secured our lot, and some time in April broke ground, and commenced in earnest to make real the visions we had cherished with so much of hope for so many long months."

"About one year from the time we held our first meeting in Brother Bullard's sitting room, we had our beautiful church ready for dedication. The friends here all the arrangement of the me to take such parts as I might feel disposed to, and assign to others, as I pleased. The services of the dedication were highly enjoyed."

"I remained pastor after the dedication of the church only about four months, being urgently recalled to the field of labor I left, when I went to Lowell.

REV. C. R. SKINNER
Pastor

"I would add that in all my various fields of labor, or pastoral charges, I have never had under my care so interesting a flock as that at Lowell. For six months, or perhaps nearly a year, I sat by the room so large and close-crowded with people that heads came almost together. I can truly say that I had the most beautiful, best dressed and splendid congregation I ever beheld. (This letter was written in 1874.) And to this fact all preachers with whom I exchanged notes testified. Large as was the congregation (more than a thousand persons), I do not remember but a single head that showed gray hairs. (Reference was made to Isaac Lovejoy, Esq.)

"My attachment to the people of that congregation was deep, strong and lasting. Sometimes I have reflected upon myself for leaving that dear beloved people, but at the time I decided to do so, I was badly worn with care and hard work, and felt a desire for rest. I had been in the midst of every part of the great effort of building a week, besides other parish work; had been all the time under a strong degree of excitement, of anxiety and concern, and was really worn out. So I accepted the earnest call of my friends in Maine, and returned to my old field of labor, leaving a salary of $1200 for one of $600. This last fact should go on record for the wonder and astonishment of churches and ministers of the present time."

To some of us the names of the first officers of the society are familiar. Solon D. Pampelly was elected moderator; David Tapley, treasurer; William B. Davis, collector; Isaac Place, James C. Hill, Hale Clement, Otis Bullard and Holland Streeter, prudential committee.

Mr. Harris then dwelt on the pastorate of Rev. Abel C. Thomas, Rev. Alfred A. Mier and Rev. W. G. Haskell. Summing up the work accomplished, he said:

"Did time serve it would be interesting to follow the history of the society during the various pastorates up to the present time, but I must be brief and must leave out many important matters. There was a succession of pastorate up to about the middle of the Civil war, when, with cotton unobtainable, the Lowell mills were at a standstill, business depression was over all industry, hundreds of Lowell's citizens were on the battlefield and had removed to the country, and it is not strange that the finances of the society became so reduced that it could no longer employ a pastor. But the people did not remain long in the clough of despond; arrangements were soon made to re-

THROW AWAY YOUR EYE-GLASSES

A FREE PRESCRIPTION

You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man, after trying it, "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever wearing glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Optona, fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Optona tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now, as it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

sume services, and the society entered upon another period of prosperity. Rev. John G. Adams, in his pastorate of seven years, from 1855 to 1872, did much to reestablish the society on a firm foundation. He was instrumental in securing for the society the full ownership of the edifice, the dedication of which we are recognizing today. He was followed by Rev. W. G. Haskell, who was accounted to be a very able preacher."

He paid a high tribute to the personality of Rev. Ransom A. Skinner and dwelt on his long and fruitful pastorate. He brought his address to a close as follows:

"To the pulpit he so long graced was called Rev. Clarence A. Skinner, from the city of Mount Vernon, N. Y., where he had already, though a young man, shown himself to be the possessor of qualities of mental leadership and spiritual grace. In the few months that he has been with the society, he has fully met all our hopes and expectations; he has with him a harmonious and united people, who are awake and enthusiastic, and who firmly believe in him; and neither an interested nor a disinterested observer can say any reason to doubt that under his leadership, this society will enjoy one of the most prosperous and useful periods of its existence. And of the old church, let me say, 'Peace be within thy walls; for my brethren and companions' sake, peace be within them.'"

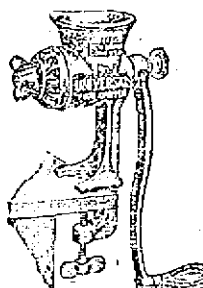

Mr. Harris was followed by Rev. Clarence R. Skinner, pastor of the church, who spoke briefly on the church of today. During his talk he brought out the fact that the minister is out a small part in the success of any church and that the cooperation of every member is needed. He asked whether the church people of today had the same feeling toward their church as their fathers did years ago. At that time the women used to labor in the cellar or carry food to the attic rooms to make

$67,000,000 BOND ISSUE

Appeal of Former Gov. Bulkeley and Other New Haven Stockholders Before Judge Sheldon

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—The appeal of former Governor Bulkeley of Connecticut and other stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. Co. from a decree of the public service commission to issue $67,000,000 in convertible bonds was before Judge Sheldon of the supreme judicial court today for the purpose of putting the case in shape to be argued before the full bench of that court which is now sitting. There are no facts in dispute and the evidence presented consisted of a condensed history of the railroad and the records of the public service commission in relation to the now contested bond and stock issue.

Nathan Matthews, who appeared for the appellants, said that although his clients were interested in securing a judicial determination of the rights of the public service commission, of far more importance were the questions of law involved. The policy of the commonwealth was at stake in the matter of issuing stock and bonds and the arbitrary and unlawful exercise of authority by the commission would tend to do away with the wise limitations that have existed since 1852 to prevent stock inflation and regulate indebtedness.

Charles F. Choate for the New York, New Haven & Hartford road and Attorney General Swift for the public service commission both argued that the action of the commission was legal under the legislative acts of 1913. If the papers can be printed in time the case will be heard by the full court this week.

As the case progressed Mr. Matthews suggested that it might be desirable for the court to have before it all the evidence heard by the public service commission to enable the court to determine whether the order of the commission was lawful.

E. D. Robbins, general counsel for the company and one of the directors, addressed the court on that question. In 1907, he said, when the panic surprised the financial business world, the New York, New Haven & Hartford road was unprepared for such an emergency. Prompt action was essential to the safety of the road and it was then that J. P. Morgan secured from France one of the few loans made by that country and aided over its unexpected difficulties. If that loan had been delayed a week the consequences would have been disastrous not only to the corporation but to its stockholders and the commonwealth.

It was in view of such situations which were liable to occur at any time that the states of New York and Massachusetts had created boards of public service commissioners and clothed them with highly discretionary powers to meet an emergency, he said. One of the main purposes of the act giving the Massachusetts commission its somewhat extraordinary powers was to prevent technical objections which in an emergency if the commission were obliged to consider them might mean ruin to the corporation.

Mr. Choate said that if he and Mr. Matthews had been able to confer for a few minutes he felt certain that the question raised might be avoided. If Mr. Matthews had attended all the hearings given by the public service commission he might have realized that the commission acted on sufficient evidence in addition to their practical knowledge of matters of this kind.

KING OF BULGARIA

Ferdinand Declares His Abdication in Favor of Son Probable

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—King Ferdinand of Bulgaria who arrived yesterday in Coburg on a visit to the reigning family there, declared today that his abdication from the throne in favor of his son is possible and even probable in spite of the denial published by the Bulgarian legation here.

Austrian statesmen are understood to be doing their utmost to discourage his surrender of the throne because they consider the young crown prince, Boris, likely to be influenced by the element among the Bulgarian ministers who are friendly to Russia.

King Ferdinand, however, is receiving little encouragement in Germany, which is not disposed to assist the monarch whose star is believed to be setting. Emperor William and the German government have expressed themselves openly as friendly to Greece and it is understood that King Ferdinand, who desired to come to Berlin was given the intimation that such a visit would be useless. King Ferdinand, who is residing incognito at the place at Coburg spent this morning in prayer at the graves of his ancestors. He is the youngest son of the late Prince Augustus-Coburg-Gotha and was elected prince of Bulgaria on July 7, 1887. He declared himself king in 1908 and was recognized as such by the powers.

HUNTERS SMILE

Yesterday's Snow Made Tracking Easy—Many on Warpath

The scores of hunters in the country about Lowell who had spent the chilly evenings of last week in furishing the barrels, polishing the stocks and oiling the locks of their trusty shotguns and who during the course of that delightful preparation tracked and retracked, shot and reshot deer of former seasons were all smiles yesterday morning when on looking out their bedroom windows they saw the surrounding fields and tree-tops coated with a fine layer of white.

Their anticipation of easy tracking was in a measure dispelled this morning by the melting rays of our warm friend but though most of the snow had taken its way to other parts still its going left the turf in the soggy condition which hunters like. At sunrise, when the law is off for a week, the hills of Westford, North Chelmsford, Cranstonville, Groton, Dunstable, Tyngsboro, and Tewksbury were being scoured by the "regulars" and quite a few new devotees of the pastime of leatherstocking. In those sections it has been reported, however, that both deer and small game are far from numerous. Both their tracks and the sight of their antlers have been scarce since the start of this season owing, no doubt, to the continuous exodus of gunmen into their haunts during the past month.

In the state thousands of hunters have secured licenses for the week's hunting. The sport is permitted in eight counties. Shotguns are the only weapons which can be used, while the assistance of dogs is forbidden. Each hunter is allowed to kill only one deer, a fine of $100 being attached to the killing of more than one. With the sinking of the sun on Saturday will come the renewed protection of these animals by the state. In western and southeastern parts of Massachusetts deer are so plentiful, it is reported, that they are a menace to the crops.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous
Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and mechanical treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, unchanged, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisphosphated magnesia, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but which acidity is developed. Foods that are eaten with impunity if bisphosphated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.

POLITICAL FIELD

Saco-Lowell shops in Dutton street and addressed a body of several hundred men. Organizer Young, the man who has built up the strongest machinists' union ever formulated in this city, was in the crowd and had passed around cards giving notice of a meeting at Associate hall this evening. The mayor prefaced his remarks with a word about the meeting at which the new lodge of machinists will be installed. The mayor called attention to the fact that it was through the efforts of Organizer Young that the distribution of such cards in the public streets was made possible. When Mr. Young first came to Lowell he found there was an ordinance forbidding the distribution of literature and he went to see the mayor about it. The mayor took the matter up with other members of the municipal council with the result that certain sections of the ordinance were stricken out and the ordinance was made to read so as to allow the distribution of literature of an instructive or educational nature.

In speaking of tonight's meeting the mayor hoped it would be a big success and congratulated the machinists of Lowell on their splendid organization. He said that nearly nine hundred machinists have organized for better wages, better conditions and shorter hours, and these things, he said, he sincerely hoped they would attain. The mayor defended the present government's administration and regretted that certain men seeking office were attempting to give Lowell and her citizens a black eye. There was no dearth of applause when the mayor finished speaking.

At 12.40 today Dennis J. Murphy addressed a good sized gathering at the United States Bunting Co., going over practically the same ground covered in his various other speeches. He criticized the administration of the police department, and made sweeping charges as usual.

Dr. McCarthy, candidate for mayor addressed the same audience to which Mayor O'Donnell spoke this noon at the machine shop rate in Dutton street.

John A. Osgood spoke at the Merrimack mill gate at noon and was well received.

James F. Miskella spoke at the Massachusetts mill gate, making a stirring address, while Lawrence Cummings addressed a crowd at the corner of Jackson and Central streets and was applauded. Practically all of the other candidates who have been holding open air meetings were out today addressing the voters and making their final appeals this noon.

James J. Gallagher, Alderman Barratt and Charles J. Morse spoke at the Lamson Co., each setting forth his claims for preference by the voters.

John J. Daly, ex-alderman addressed several rallies this noon and was enthusiastically received.

For the school board there are several candidates who should give good service. Among the number is James C. Reilly, a prominent young lawyer, who was defeated two years ago by a malicious story that deluded the voters.

On Friday night quite a large number of republicans met at Old Fellows hall and planned to use their efforts to promote the candidacy of James H. McKinley for mayor.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Edward Cawley, candidate for commissioner, on page three, as it was crowded off the last page for which it was ordered.

A Protest
The following note is received: Lowell, Mass., Nov. 17, 1913.

To the Editor of The Lowell Sun: Dear Sir: At a meeting of the board of directors of the Catholic Young Men's League, Sunday, Nov. 16th, the article published in one of the Sunday papers was brought up. The C. Y. M. L. is not connected with any political candidate and never was or ever will be pledged to any candidate. The board of directors of the C. Y. M. L. is made up of a body of young men who are capable of selecting their own candidates, and the society as a whole has no control over its members in other words it is not a political club. The purpose of the organization is to keep Catholic young men together and not to select political candidates; it is non-partisan.

Yours truly,
C. Y. M. L.
Paul McLaughlin, Recording Secretary.

that he made votes for the men whom he abused. The big crowd of the evening was at city hall. There were several thousand people there, including a very generous sprinkling of the fair sex. They remained to hear the last of the 57 varieties of speakers and some of them were blue with the cold when they turned away. The windup will come tonight and about all the candidates have arranged whirlwind tours of the city. Some of them will speak at as many as twelve or fifteen different places.

COM. CUMMINGS

Consults With County Commission Relative to Market St. Building

Commissioner Cummings and City Solicitor Hennessy had a conference with the county commissioners at the county house in Gorham street this morning relative to the lease by the county of the Market street house. Before the recent improvements, including the installation of steel vaults, were made at the Market street building the county paid the rental of $2400 a year for court room, offices, etc. This rent was raised to $2350 a year and a new lease was drawn up. The commissioners asked that certain changes relative to upkeep, heat and light be made in the lease and it was held that purpose that the meeting was held this morning. It is understood that the lease is now acceptable to both parties and the commissioners will attach their signatures to it at a meeting to be held tomorrow morning. It is a 10-year lease and the $2350 is payable annually when due.

Lawrence Street Bridge
The commissioners also met with City Engineer Kearney relative to the bridge across the Wamesit canal in Lawrence street and the sewage question at the North Chelmsford fruit school. The trouble at the Lawrence street bridge is due to the fact that the Boston & Maine railroad did not make proper arrangements for the laying of the spur track, did not allow enough, and because of that fact it was necessary to raise the grade of the street about five inches.

The city has done, but the city refuses to pay its original share of the cost until the cost of raising the street grade has been properly and satisfactorily adjusted. The job cost $300. The county commissioners after going over the matter very thoroughly advised that the city come to some agreement with the other parties concerned, including the railroad and the Wamesit Power Co., and when an agreement was arrived at the commission will amend the decree.

The sewage question at the truant school has to do with a proposed scheme to connect the school with the Lowell sewer. The city engineer had not gone into the matter thoroughly enough to have anything definite or tangible to offer, but it was decided that if the connection was made the commissioners and the city would go to the legislature and have the matter properly attended to.

For Perpetual Care
Commissioner Cummings has received a request from the Civil and Spanish war veterans requesting that their lot in the Edison cemetery be put under perpetual care. In order to do this it will be necessary to create an ordinance and Com. Cummings will submit the proposition to the municipal council members for their endorsement.

MEXICO SITUATION

pected a further attempt would be made this afternoon to organize the senate, Saturday's effort having failed on account of the lack of a quorum.

The chamber of deputies was ordered to hold a session today for the purpose of revising the credentials of its members and it is expected that unless the United States government finds a means to bring about an alteration of the present plans the first regular meeting of that house will occur on Thursday.

Meanwhile whether the United States embassy is to remain or to be withdrawn appears to be a matter of which Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires himself is uncertain. The staff of the embassy is ready to leave at a moment's notice and little surprise would be felt here, although much alarm would be caused in case Mr. O'Shaughnessy and his establishment should take the evening train to Vera Cruz.

PRESENTER WILSON WILL NOT WITHDRAW AMERICAN EMBASSY IN MEXICO
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Wilson does not regard the Mexican situation as having reached any such critical stage as to require the closing of the American embassy. Discussing reports to that effect today, he said, Charge O'Shaughnessy neither has been given his passport nor been told to come back. While details as to persons have changed, yet the main circumstances remained substantially the same as when the president previously expressed a favorable view of the situation. Summing up the status of affairs, the president indicated that while the personal attitude of General Huerta might be changed the circumstances on which the American government bases its conviction that Huerta's elimination is inevitable have not changed at all. The mills of the gods grind slowly," expresses the slow and steady purposes to be pursued.

The president made it plain the changes in the situation had not impaired confidence in the ultimate solution of the problem by peaceful means. Official denial was made at the White House of a report that Paul Amann's mediation was contemplated and it was reiterated that no mediation of any kind had been offered to either faction. South American nations, it was stated, had been informed in the same way as European nations and have expressed in the main their desire to support the American policy. Brazil in particular in not having recognized the Huerta government previously is regarded especially friendly to the American policy.

Secretary Bryan ordered investigation of the executions at Juarez, but thus far has been unable to reconcile conflicting reports.

FOREIGNERS FLEE FROM MEXICO
—COMMUNICATION WITH U. S.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—General Huerta regards his part in the recent exchange of communications with the United States as finished. He expects to find no difficulty in consummating his plan to bring his new congress in full organization tomorrow and he is planning his military campaigns and carrying out his policies of pacification.

What further move may be taken at Washington is a question which neither the Mexicans nor the foreigners here find it easy to answer but there is no doubt that an increased expression of opinion that the United States would continue her hands-off policy. This was not a dominating belief but those who expressed it pointed out that there was an element at Washington which would be contented to see the federalists and constitutionalists play their own game to the finish, the taking of Juarez by the rebel forces being cited as perhaps an encouragement of such a disposition at Washington. It was reported, however, that Chihuahua had been captured. The war department, however, has little information regarding military operations especially those in the north in which the rebels are said to be victorious. The situation about Tuxtepec, the centre of the oil industry, is described as acute. The rebels are urging the foreigners to capture their wells and leave them as the rebels do not propose to leave an unrestricted supply of fuel oil for the railroads nor to enable the government to derive revenue from that source.

Exodus of Foreigners
The exodus of foreigners continued today. The trains to Vera Cruz were jammed. It was asserted at the American embassy that no new instructions had been received. Many American citizens who have reached here from smaller towns in the interior possess the deep-seated feeling that the situation has reached a most acute stage and large numbers of them have joined in the rush to Vera Cruz.

A number of business concerns here whose headquarters are abroad have received cabled instructions to send the women and children of their employees out of the federal capital, while from

Vera Cruz today a man arrived who claimed to be a messenger from John Lind and who urged the immediate departure of all American women and children, and advised the men to do likewise.

All the ministers of foreign countries are still here and it is not anticipated that any of them will leave their posts even in case of intervention, as the diplomats consider it part of their duty to continue to safeguard the interests of their respective countries.

In this connection Admiral Von Hinz, the German minister is optimistic, saying he believes there is no reason for anxiety and that a plan is being considered by which armed intervention will surely be avoided.

HAMPTON CASE
Came Before National Grange at Manchester Today

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—The Hampton case, so-called, came before the National Grange today in the form of a divided report from the committee on peace, three of the committee favoring the reimbursement of George P. Hampton for money expended in his defense when an attempt was made to expel him from his subordinate grange by the national grange and three of the committee being opposed to reimbursement. After a protracted debate the matter was tabled. This was followed by the introduction of a resolution by C. O. Raine of Missouri granting authority to the incoming administration to suspend from office any officer or member of the grange who shall in any way give assistance to the progressive or insurgent branch of the grange or who shall give out interviews reflecting in any way on the good name and character of any members of the grange, the penalty being expulsion from the floor. This was referred to the committee on good of the order. The remainder of the session was taken up with unimportant matters. This afternoon the officers and delegates in attendance upon the convention of the national grange were given an automobile ride about the city.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Everett P. Today in the face of rumors that he was to make a full statement to Mr. Whitman, Fowler retained Martin Littleton as counsel and began preparations to stand trial.

"Mr. Fowler will not see the district attorney," said Mr. Littleton.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—H. Otto Wittpenn, former mayor of Jersey City, a candidate in the Jersey gubernatorial primaries against Gov. President Wilson issued a statement pointing out that as several counties of New Jersey had been made part of the New Jersey customs district in the recent reorganization it was appropriate that New Jersey should be represented.

LIBEL CASE

some letters from Mr. Clark about the libel matter.

Mr. Wier presented a letter and asked the witness if that was a copy of the one he heard Mr. Clark read.

"It is very near the same," said the witness.

Mr. Wier then read a letter from the firm of Pratt & Forrest stating that Mr. Twombly visited their lumber yard and stated that he had $300 or $400 at his disposal and left and proposed that they send some lumber to his home and bill same to the town of Billerica.

"Do you know whether Mr. Whitney of the firm of Pratt and Forrest was ever before the grand jury about this matter?"

"I don't know."

"Did you ask Mr. Whitney what he said to the grand jury?"

"I asked him if he made a certain statement to the grand jury."

"Was this visit you made to Mr. Whitney before or after you talked with Mr. Clark?"

"The afternoon after Mr. Clark read the letter to me."

"At what time was the investigation by the grand jury?"

"After the special town meeting."

"After you made that first visit to Mr. Whitney, did you arrange to take some one with you?"

"I asked someone to go with me."

"Do you remember the date?"

"March 17."

"Do you remember which street you went up to get to the yard?"

"We went past Hanson's stable."

"What was Mr. Whitney doing when you were there?"

"I don't remember, exactly."

"Where was Mr. Whitney?"

"In one of the paths in the lumber yard."

"Was there lumber on each side of you?"

"There might have been."

"Where was Mr. Mahoney, the man you took with you?"

"On the opposite side of the path, six or eight feet away from me."

"What was said?"

"I asked Mr. Whitney if he ever made any statement similar to that in the affidavit and he said he had not. I asked him if I ever got any lumber for my use from Pratt and Forrest and charged it to the town of Billerica and he answered in the negative. I asked if all the business that I ever did with Pratt and Forrest had not been straight and he said 'Yes' I then said I would make Mr. Clark prove it and he said, 'I wish you luck' and waved his hand."

"Did you go and see Mr. Pratt afterward?"

"No, sir."

"Did you know Mr. Pratt?"

"No."

"Did you see Mr. Forrest?"

"No."

"Did you or Mr. Mahoney make any notes of the conversation?"

"I didn't."

"Did Mr. Mahoney?"

"He said he did."

"Did Mr. Clark on the next interview have with him certain affidavits and read them to you?"

"I don't remember. The first I saw of them was when they were put on the street."

"Are you certain that during March, 1909, those affidavits were not read to you?"

"I don't remember."

"You said you never met Mr. Forrest until last week."

"Not that I know of."

"When did you meet Mr. Pratt?"

"I don't know him now."

"Did you ever talk with him?"

"Not that I know of."

"What have you said your business was when you first went to Billerica?"

"Farming, sawing lumber, trading, etc."

"Did you do any building?"

"I built one house."

"Before you were elected highway surveyor?"

"No."

"Have you done any other building?"

"I have done considerable repairing."

"Where?"

"In my property in the vicinity of my home. I remodeled a barn and changed it into a double dwelling house."

"When did you remodel the barn?"

"I don't remember when. I can furnish receipts."

"Who did the work? Yourself?"

"No, a carpenter, Victor J. Hooper."

"In your statement, did you say you never had any occasion to buy hardware flooring?"

"I did, my carpenter bought the lumber and I paid the bills."

"What other business have you done?"

"Night watchman for a Pennsylvania firm at the Boston & Maine car shops."

"What was that?"

"In 1912, I believe I worked there over eight months."

"You finished before the last town meeting?"

"Yes."

Mr. Mahoney

Mr. Mahoney, who accompanied Mr. Twombly to the lumber yard to interview the foreman was next called.

"What is your name?"

"Henry J. Mahoney."

"Where do you reside?"

"North Billerica, Mass."

"How long have you lived there?"

"All my life."

"Where do you work?"

"Talbot mills."

"Is that the mill the defendant is treasurer of?"

"Yes."

"When did you go to the lumber yard of Pratt & Forrest?"

"March, 1909."

"Do you remember any of the conversation that took place?"

"Yes."

"Tell the jury."

"I went with Twombly to the yard and he asked Mr. Whitney if he, Twombly, ever did or attempted to have any lumber sent to his house and charged to the town and Whitney said 'no.'"

"Where did you then go, to Mr. Clark's office?"

"Yes."

"Who was there?"

"Witness named several men."

"What did Mr. Clark do at that time?"

"He was employed at the Talbot mill."

"Mr. Conway and Mr. Mortenson, what did they do?"

"Worked at the Talbot mill."

"What conversation took place?"

"I don't remember."

"When were you first asked to give an account of the conversation between Twombly and Whitney?"

"I think, just before the town meeting."

"Had anyone ever spoken to you about the talk with Mr. Whitney before you were asked to sign this affidavit?"

"I don't think so."

"That affidavit was made at what place?"

"Mr. Wilson's office."

"Who was present at Mr. Wilson's office?"

"Mr. Twombly and John R. Conway."

"Did you talk over the matter on the way in to Lowell?"

"No."

"Do you remember any talk you had with Twombly before you arrived at Mr. Wilson's office?"

"No, we didn't talk it over before we reached the office."

"How far away were you at the time of Mr. Twombly's talk with Mr. Whitney?"

"Six or seven feet."

"Did Mr. Twombly tell Mr. Clark at that interview in the afternoon, that you were the witness he had to prove Mr. Whitney's statement?"

"I think so."

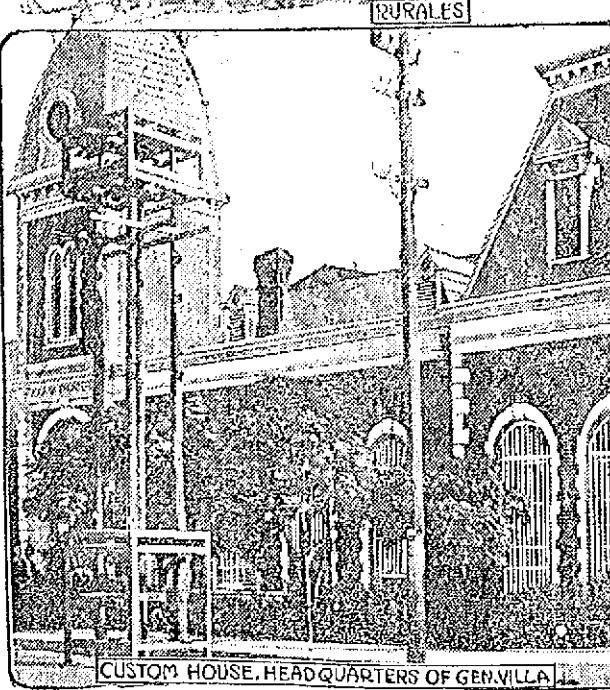

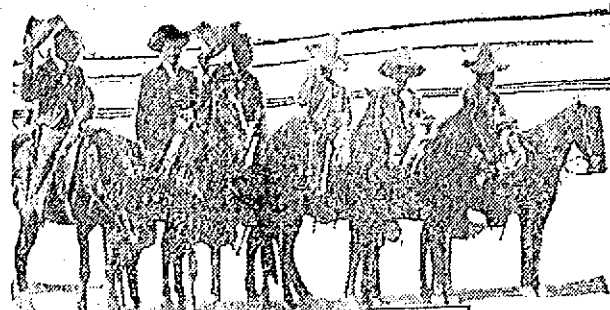

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, pretty sure."

Officer Burns

Mr. Burns, a court officer, who at one time was a state officer, was next called and he testified that during the year 1907 he visited the property of Pratt & Forrest in regard to this matter. The grand jury investigation took place in June, 1907. He did not remember who

CUSTOM HOUSE, HEADQUARTERS OF GEN. VILLA

EL PASO, Nov. 17.—The capture of the city of Juarez, across the international bridge from here, by the constitutionalists has created wide disorder in Mexico, and Mexicans and Americans alike have fled across the border, seeking the protection of Uncle

Sam. General Villa, the rebel leader, has made his headquarters at the custom house in Juarez, and he is now planning to extend the scope of authority into the outlying districts. The federal rurales and the regular federal troops have been driven out of the city after a disorderly retreat.

He talked with at the office of Pratt & Forrest.

Martin Conway

Martin Conway, police officer at Billerica for the past 26 years, took the stand.

"Were you at the special town meeting in October, 1906?" asked Mr. Wilson.

"I was."

"Did you make a report?"

"Not as a report, but I talked, when called upon."

"Was Mr. Clark present?"

"I cannot say that he was."

"How long were you engaged with Officer Burns investigating this matter?"

"About three weeks, I believe."

"To whom did you report?"

"Mr. Burns reported to the district attorney and to the police court at Lowell."

"At some time did you talk with Mr. Clark about Mr. Twombly?"

"I talked with him about the investigation."

"What occurred when you talked with him?"

"I told him we investigated the matter."

"What did Mr. Clark say the next time you talked with him?"

"He said he had heard that Mr. Twombly went to Pratt and Forrest and tried to get lumber billed to the town and delivered to him and further said he believed that to be a severe charge to make unless true. He spoke of letters received from Pratt and Forrest."

"Did he ask you if you still thought Twombly was on the square?"

"Yes, he did."

"Did you say that after the investigation you found no charges against Mr. Twombly?"

"I think I did."

"What did you tell Mr. Clark when he asked you about the investigation?"

"I met Mr. Clark in the finishing room of the Talbot mill and he said he would like to get my idea on the actions of Mr. Twombly. I went over the charges and told him the result. He said if that was true he was glad to hear it."

Mrs. Edgar F. Twombly was next called and was questioned by Mr. Wilson.

"How long have you been married to the plaintiff?"

"Seven years."

"Are you a professional nurse?"

"I am."

"What has been Mr. Twombly's condition since this affair?"

"He has been very nervous. I have worked over him many nights."

Mr. Wier then took the witness.

"At the time of your marriage was Mr. Twombly nervous over the affair that took place at the town meeting?"

"I believe so, a little."

"Was he anxious as to the report of the grand jury?"

"No."

Matthew Kohlrausch of North Billerica was called. He was formerly employed as overseer in the drying department of the Talbot mill. He said there was a meeting of the "bosses" of the Talbot company at the home of Joseph Talbot and at that meeting there was a general discussion of the best means of preventing Mr. Twombly's election. "Mr. Clark opened the meeting by reading some letters or by telling the contents of letters received from Pratt and Forrest or other persons," said Mr. Kohlrausch.

ATTACHMENT RECORDED

An attachment was filed at the registry of deeds this morning against Harold W. Estey of Billerica by Frank R. Bennett of Concord. The amount of the suit is $15,000 for an action of tort.

Feel Bulky! No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Constipation

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep.

A 10-cent box from your drugist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

TO PAY DEATH PENALTY

HENRY SPENCER WILL BE HANGED FOR THE MURDER OF MRS. REXROAT

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Henry Spencer, found guilty of the sensational murder of Mrs. Mildred Allison-Rexroat, tango teacher, has been sentenced to death by hanging. His execution will take place next month. Since his arrest Spencer has been boasting that he wanted to be the feature of a "necktie parly," but when the verdict was read he turned pale and almost collapsed. The defense was weak. No attorneys were placed on the stand. The mental condition of Spencer was not passed on by experts. He took the stand, but his evidence was mostly confined to the answer "I don't know" to every question put by his attorney and the representative of the state.

evening. He told Judge Enright this morning that his wife put him out of his house a few weeks ago and has had nothing to do with either himself or her children since that time.

What the officers saw and overheard in the room caused them to arrest the two defendants. Inspector McCloughrey was examined by Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., counsel for the defense, at some length and was also examined thoroughly by Attorney Regan, the defendants' lawyer.

Neither of the defendants appeared to be very much concerned about the matter of their arrest. The woman in particular testified without the slightest suggestion of embarrassment and endeavored to cast the blame on her husband. It was alleged by the defense that the husband was cruel to the wife and also that he had invited Gould to his house.

Judge Enright sentenced them each to the house of correction for a term of six months. Both defendants entered an appeal.

Albert Daniels will spend the next three months in jail for getting very drunk regularly and for abusing his wife whether drunk or sober. Officer Lamoureux informed the court as to the man's private and domestic character and after that he had no chance of escaping imprisonment.

Joseph Lamoureux is a rather man who does not show his wife a great deal of consideration. It was alleged that he carried a knife and threatened to kill her with it but the defendant affirmed that this was fictitious. However, if he tries any more capers of the kind alleged he will go to the house of correction as Judge Enright, upon his promise to reform and support his family, gave him a suspended sentence of five months to that institution.

Michael Campbell, a man who is proud of the fact that he has not worked for twenty years, was committed to the state farm as a vagrant. He is rather old now but he has not done a day's work since he was a young man. He belongs to the class, well known in police circles, who will not work under any consideration.

John Grimes, whom Officer Martin Conway of Billerica picked up, was fined $15 for drunkenness. He settled. Annie Chadwick took a ride in the police limousine up Thordike street way and will remain there for the ensuing sixty days. There were two $8 drunks and fifteen releases by the probation officer.

was granted, the men went to the mills this morning, started the fires, then walked out. The strikers number about 450.

Should the strike be long continued the mills employing 35,000 operatives would be forced to shut down on account of the provision in the law prohibiting the running of a manufacturing establishment for more than one week without licensed frames. The manufacturers have not yet indicated whether they will attempt to fill the places of the strikers. The chamber of commerce has offered its services in an effort to bring about an agreement. The strikers now work twelve hours a day and the union claims that many are forced to work seven days a week. Before voting to strike, the union rejected a compromise offer from the manufacturers of a 66 hour week with two days off in seven.

Agent Walter E. Parker of the Pacific mills, in which 60 of the striking firemen were employed, stated this afternoon that the Pacific intends to continue to run the plant during the strike if possible. He said that the compromise offer made by his mill, and rejected by the firemen was a schedule of 60 hours a week with two days off each week and an increase of wages from 21 1/2 cents an hour to 24 cents an hour. This wage scale represents the new rate under the shorter hour schedule and does not mean an increase in the weekly wage.

Rumors were afloat that the American Woolen Co. plants had been forced to shut down this noon but this was denied at the offices of the mills. The strikers announced after a meeting this morning that if the strike is not ended promptly a mass meeting will be held in the city hall to put the firemen's side of the controversy before the public.

PROTECT FORESTS CHRISTMAS MAIL

Commission in Forestry Reports to Conservation Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—From one-fifth to one-third of the United States must be devoted to forests if proper stream flow and the prevention of the washing away of the soil are to be brought about in the opinion of the special commission in forestry which is to report to the fifth annual convention of the national conservation congress. This announcement was made today by the federal forest service. The commission, which was organized by the federal forest service, is composed of the following members: Chief of the commission, Mr. G. B. Cooper, chief of the federal forest service; Mr. J. H. Mearns, chief of the bureau of land management; Mr. C. D. Dyer, chief of the bureau of biological survey; Mr. W. A. Douglas, chief of the bureau of plant industry; Mr. J. H. Mearns, chief of the bureau of land management; Mr. C. D. Dyer, chief of the bureau of biological survey; Mr. W. A. Douglas, chief of the bureau of plant industry.

Under present conditions the commission believes that the forest is in a state of peril to the granary of the continent.

"Where clearing of the forest in the Atlantic and Gulf coast states is a necessity," the committee warns, "it should be done only under the condition that the cleared land is to be devoted to intensive cultivation, as after forests are cut down the soil is so exhausted that it is impossible to grow crops on it."

The committee will advance the theory that as forests give off more moisture than water surfaces of equal area the prevention of arable land being rendered impossible of cultivation lies with the retention of wooded lands. Planting of trees around cultivated fields will be recommended as aiding in advancing their agricultural possibilities.

ADJ. GEN. PEARSON TALKS

OBJECTS TO POLICY OF WAR DEPARTMENT TOWARD THE NATIONAL GUARD

An interesting statement regarding military affairs has been issued by Adjutant General Pearson, chief of staff of the Massachusetts volunteer militia in which he refers to erroneous statements alleged to have been made in connection with the action of the National guard association at the annual convention in Chicago in October. The statement refers to the militia pay bill.

The issue was raised, said Mr. Pearson, when the secretary of war declined to hold further conference with the representatives of the 120,000 officers and men of the organized militia in reference to federal assistance that would amount to a small compensation for both officers and men. Apparently, says the adjutant general, the secretary of war has admitted the hopelessness of organizing the army in connection with a desired standard, and has turned his eyes to the national guard with the hope of forcing it to conform to such a standard. Mr. Pearson said among other things:

"The whole history of the trials and tribulations of the pay bill emphatically indicate that, while it has been accepted in principle, by two secretaries of war, the chief of staff and by President Taft, the hitch has always been, not because the National Guardsmen objected to fighting or leaving the country in time of war, but because the secretary or his advisers apparently have hunted up some new standard not yet attained by the army to impose upon the militia."

I believe the feeling of the delegates at Chicago was that we are perfectly willing to conform to the reasonable or unreasonable standards to which the U. S. army will conform, but that as yet we should not be expected to set the standard of organization any more than we should be expected to set the standard of training for the regular army."

PASTOR FAVORS ADVERTISING

The Rev. Frank H. Elbright, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Whitehouse, N. J., believes that advertising is as necessary in the church as in business. His views on advertising were shown in this advertisement, which appeared yesterday in the Whitehouse Herald:

"Stolen, Strayed, Lost or Misplaced:—Missing—Lost, Sunday, many families from church."

"Stolen—Several hours from the Lord's day by a great number of people."

"Strayed—Half a hundred lambs; sent in the direction of no Sunday school."

"Misplaced—A quantity of silver coins sent to the Lord."

"Wanted—Scores of young people. When last seen were walking up Sabbath Breaker's Lane, which leads to So Good."

"Lost—A lad carefully reared. Noting from home. Supposed to have gone to Husk Lane, Prodigal Town."

"Any person assisting in the discovery of the above shall in no wise lose its reward."

"Whitehouse M. E. church. Get the 'Whit'—New York World."

It will be necessary for the water supply district to erect about a special meeting in the near future by reason of a difficulty in connection with a recent bond issue of $3000, made to pay the expense of installing a duplicate pumping plant and more wells in the Dracut water works.

Sec. Lane to Hold Back Government Mail to Help Out Santa Claus

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—In an effort to speed the flying hoofs of Santa Claus' reindeer, Secretary Lane of the interior department today issued orders that the children's patron saint be given as clear and unimpeded track as possible. To bring this about the employees of the department were ordered to refrain from forwarding government package mail to Washington or elsewhere during the ten days preceding Christmas except in emergency cases.

The importance of the order and the aid it will be to the postoffice department in handling the vast amount of package mail during the holiday rush is seen in the announcement that a vast amount of package mail always is in transit between the various offices of the department. Secretary Lane says the business of the government will not suffer by the brief let up in its transmission, while the benefits to be conferred in relieving the mails of the matter will be great. The department's letter mail will go forward as usual.

SALE OF STAMPS

Asst. Postmaster Hands Down Decision on the Stamp Slot Machines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—"When an eager person drops a nickel in a slot machine and gets four one-cent or two two-cent stamps, thereby paying a premium of one cent for the privilege of dropping the coin he cannot hold the United States government guilty of extortion." This ruling was made today by the postoffice department. A. J. Dockery, third assistant postmaster, handed down the decision. He was prompted to the action because of the flood of protests that has nearly swamped the department, all aimed at the imposition of a premium when stamps were extracted from the mechanical devices. Mr. Dockery acknowledged that the law prohibits the sale of stamps by postmasters and their employees at more than their face value but points out that the statute does not apply to outsiders.

"The government has no jurisdiction over stamp-vending machines located elsewhere than on postoffice premises," he said, "and the postoffice department has no authority to interfere with the sale of stamps at more than face value in such devices."

Greatest Flood in 25 Years on the Upper Monongahela

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—Heavy snowfall in the mountainous sections of West Virginia followed by an unusually heavy rainfall has caused the greatest flood in 25 years on the upper Monongahela. Sufficient warning of the flood in the Monongahela has been sent to all points by the weather bureau.

FOREIGN DELEGATIONS

TO ATTEND THE INTERNATIONAL ANTI-VIVISECTION AND ANIMAL PROTECTION CONGRESS

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Delegates from many foreign countries are to attend the international anti-vivisection and animal protection congress to be held here Dec. 8 to 14. It was announced today. The congress will consider the broad question of "kindness to dumb animals" and will not confine itself solely to the topic of vivisection. Among the subjects to be taken up are those dealing with reforms in slaughtering methods, the question of homes for lost and strayed animals, humane methods in destroying animal life and kindred topics.

OPIUM SMOKING ON TRAIN

A traveler's opium pipe has been invented, says a Kansas City despatch. This is how it is made: A long rubber tube with a mouthpiece is attached to the bowl of a regulation briar pipe. The "pill" is rolled in the usual way. And when the craving comes to the unfortunate user on a train the thing is done easily and without fuss. The apparatus is taken into a compartment—the smoking room will do if it is empty—and the pill is rolled. The window is opened enough to light the pill outside the car. Then the window is closed so it rests on the stem next to the bowl and the fumes are blown away by the wind. The smoke inside the car is not of noticeable volume.

The apparatus was introduced as evidence in the North State municipal court and helped to convict three men on a technical charge of vagrancy. The men were arrested after complaints of escaping opium fumes had been made. In their trunks the police found, besides the opium paraphernalia, racing tickets and charts, telegraphic codes, silk gowns, evening suits and silk hats. The rubber pipes were the first the police department had ever seen and their use had to be explained by the prisoners.

AVIATOR GETS JOB

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Robert Fowler, an aviator announced today that he had signed a contract with a power company to patrol its lines between Oakland and Oroville in an aeroplane and will make trips twice weekly beginning November 20. Headquarters for Fowler have been established at Sacramento.

Because of difficulty in locating broken wires and interrupting power service the company hit upon the idea of employing an aeroplane and aviator and when Fowler demonstrated that the plan was feasible a contract was signed. A patrolman equipped with repair apparatus will ride with Fowler.

THE B. & M. RATES

Schedule Filled With Inconsistencies, Says Commissioner Prouty

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—"An increase of transportation charges which would give the Boston & Maine road an additional income of $5,000,000 the sum which officials of the road claim is needed is absolutely impracticable," according to Interstate Commerce Commissioner Prouty. In a statement published here today Mr. Prouty is quoted as saying:

"The rate schedules of the Boston & Maine are filled up with all sorts of inconsistencies. What ought to be done and what they propose to do is to apply a uniform mileage scale. It will work advances in some sections and reductions in others. The road asks to increase its class rate revenue by $500,000 to $1,000,000 but it should not be allowed an advance of much if anything over five per cent in such rates. The commission will permit the Boston & Maine to put into effect soon whatever class rate increases are approved."

"The Boston & Maine has argued that it should be allowed an income of $5,000,000 per annum higher than at present through increasing its transportation charges but such an increase is absolutely impracticable and the road will not be allowed anything like it."

EDUCATION NOTES

Several of Arizona's school laws are models of simplicity and effectiveness, according to officials of the U. S. bureau of education.

The result of adequate industrial education will be "peace, precision and prosperity in industry; happiness and hope in our homes," in the opinion of Secretary of Commerce Redfield.

The people of Mason county, Illinois, are planning to do honor, by a memorial volume and in other ways, to the memory of the late John Trainor, "father of the modern country school."

That the hundreds of health teaching agencies in the United States should organize into a general body for united and cooperative action is the assertion of Dr. F. B. Dressler of the United States bureau of education.

Student insurance is a feature of German continuation schools. For an insurance fee of 13 cents per half year the students in the schools for building, for example, are insured against all accidents that may happen to them in the school room or on the way to and from school.

When 600 girls between 14 and 16 years of age in Chicago factories were asked: "If your father had a good job, so that he could have afforded to keep you in school, would you prefer to stay in school or go to work in a factory?" 412 replied that they would still prefer to be in the factory.

JUMPED IN RIVER

Man Afire Dives to Extinguish the Flames—Woman Arrested

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Aroused from his sleep early yesterday morning by a fire which enveloped the bungalow on Bridge street, Dedham, where he was spending the night, Harry D. Dean, with his clothing inflamed made a frenzied dash a quarter of a mile to the Charles river and plunged in. He was pulled out by three automobilists and rushed to the city hospital, where it is expected he cannot live. With Dean in the bungalow at the time was a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Sadie Howland and residence in East Boston, and who claimed to be Dean's housekeeper. She escaped, but is held by the police of the Jamaica Plain station while the Dedham and Boston officials are investigating the circumstances which surrounded the unusual death. As yet the details in the possession of the police are meagre. Shortly before 2 o'clock, yesterday morning, Arnold Scott, accompanied by his wife, was returning to their home in Dedham, when an excited woman, scantily clad, stopped their car on Bridge street. She told them that a bungalow nearby had been destroyed by fire and that a man, with clothes inflamed, had run in the direction of the Charles river.

While she was explaining the affair and imploring Scott to go to his assistance, two men, whose names are unknown, in another automobile bound for Providence, came along and were also stopped. The three men started in quest of the man.

At a point on Bridge street they heard screams coming from the river and in the shallow water found Dean, suffering from his burns. The men assisted him to Scott's automobile and the latter took him to the West Roxbury police station, from which he was immediately transferred to the city hospital.

The woman, who had accompanied them, was also taken to the police station in the automobile. She was placed under arrest, being the investigator and charged with drunkenness. The police immediately began an investigation. A feature of the case is that no alarm was sounded and the building fell a prey to the flames without anyone, apparently, knowing that anything had occurred.

The bungalow was located on Bridge street, on the line between Dedham and Boston, and only 2 1/2 miles from the center of the town.

A $10,000 SUIT

Name of Second Husband Omitted From Wife's Tombstone

MAYSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 17.—Because his name was omitted from the stone marking the grave of his wife, Joseph D. Pickett sued the wife's children for $10,000.

He lost the case in the De Kalb county circuit court here, but has appealed to the supreme court.

Pickett and Ole E. Delver were childhood sweethearts in their neighborhood. Pickett enlisted for service in the Civil war and became a sergeant in the Seventeenth regiment.

After the war Pickett returned home and found that his old sweetheart had married Edwin L. Pierce. Pickett later married. In 1893 Pierce died. Pickett divorced his wife and later married Mrs. Pierce against the wishes of her children.

Pickett and the former Mrs. Pierce had lived together 10 years and nearly four months when she died. The Pierce children took possession of all her belongings except the property left to Pickett by her will, and she was buried in the Mayville cemetery.

Then the children decided to bring the body of Pierce, her first husband, from Winlow and bury it beside her grave here. The monument which had stood on Pierce's grave also was brought here, and this epitaph was added to the inscription on it, relating to Pierce:

"Ole E. Delver, wife of E. L. Pierce, born in Franklin county, Mo., May 21, 1851, died March 29, 1912."

Pickett thought the added inscription should have shown that he was the husband of Mrs. Pierce, and alleged he had been damaged $10,000, inasmuch as the omission of his name from the monument, standing in plain view of the general public, caused him great anguish.

The Pierce children demurred to the complaint, saying Pickett had no cause of action, and Judge Burns sustained the demurrer.

ARREST BANDITS

Were About to Rob a Home—Betrayed by Their Pal

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—As a result of an alleged conspiracy on the part of four young men to hold up and rob Orrin Clark, a wealthy farmer of Derry Road of $50,000, he is supposed to keep in the house, inspectors Mohr and Hampden and six officers of the Manchester police spent the night in ambush opposite the Clark farm and at an early hour arrested the four, all fully armed.

The arrested men gave the names of Ralph E. Howard, 178 Main street, Haverhill; his brother, Ray A. Howard, of the same address; Joseph McKinty of Amesbury, and Thomas Clark of Amesbury.

All of the youths are about 20 years old. The arrests came as the result of a confession, alleged to have been made by Bernard Fitzgerald, of Washington street Haverhill, who claims to have knowledge of the original plans of the quartet.

According to the story alleged to have been told to the police by Fitzgerald the five young men hearing of the large amount of money, said to be kept in the house by Orrin Clark, determined to rob the old man, who lives with his wife in a lonely spot near Derry, N. H.

Get Lay of Land

"They sent to Pittsburgh for a supply of firearms, and pending its arrival made a journey last Sunday to look the farm over. They spent the day getting the lay of the land, even going to the house for a drink of water, so that they might get a view of the interior. They then determined upon last night as the night upon which to commit the robbery."

During the week, however, it is alleged Fitzgerald recounted and told the Haverhill police about the projected holdup. The Manchester police were notified. At midnight last night a squad of eight policemen were sent down to the farm. When they told the reason of their presence to the aged couple, the Clarks became so worked up that they were afraid to have the policemen stay in the house. Accordingly the police were compelled to hide themselves by the roadside outside the house, although it had been their original intention to hide in the cellar of the house and catch the bandits in the act.

Guns, Clubs and Knives

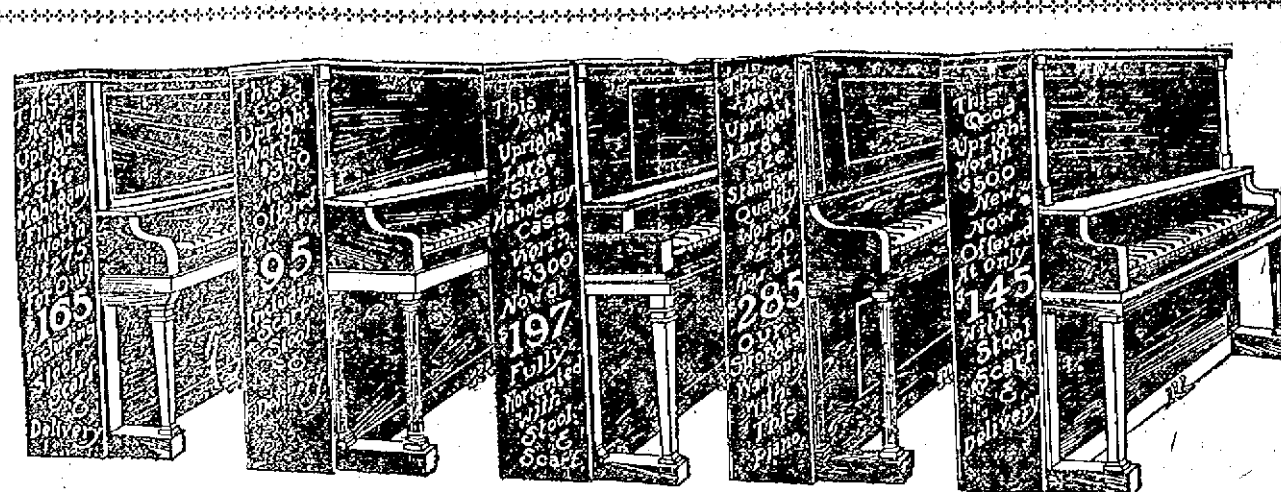

Promptly on scheduled time four figures were made out in the road in front of the house, and the police, fearing they might escape in the darkness, pounced upon them. They were found to be waiting, and were taken to Manchester. At Manchester they were searched and a varied assortment of revolvers, clubs and knives were found upon them.

As the police, owing to their inability to carry out their plans and hide in the house, did not succeed in arresting the young men in the act of robbing the house, they are held on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

FOIBLE OILS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The novel plan of increasing imports of American cottonseed oil into northern Africa, by introducing modern oil-pressing machinery and encouraging the natives to produce better grades of oil, is proposed by Commercial Agent Edwin W. Thompson in a memorandum submitted to the State Department. The "foible oils" just issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce. The natives will sell the high-grade oil abroad at excellent prices and then import cheaper oil for their own use.

The present crisis in the vegetable oil industry in Marseille is treated at some length in the memorandum. For years the undisputed center of the seed-oil trade, Marseille has recently felt the competition of the newer centers where modern machinery and methods are in use. Attention is also given to the oil-trade conditions in Morocco, Algeria and Tunis. Copies of the memorandum can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., at a cost of 5 cents.

HASN'T SEEN HER

Groom Will Not See Face of Bride Until After Wedding

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Marion C. Arnett might have been married to Dr. Francis W. Hartley, and beyond the title statement of facts no notice would have been taken of the event except by their nearest and dearest.

But Mrs. Arnett elected to hide her face until after the wedding, and the whole situation became tinged with romance. All mankind was not a wonder about the features and coloring of a bride who hid her charms from her accepted suitor.

Presumably neither Dr. Hartley nor

Mrs. Arnett was impetuous. She had had one husband and he had had two wives. There is no report of their having been unhappy in their former matrimonial alliances. Perhaps this was in part responsible for their mutual trustfulness. At any rate, the bridegroom was willing to take his veiled bride and await the revelation of her pulchritude until after the knot should be securely tied making them man and wife.

The wedding is the culmination of a courtship begun in Cuba and carried on under remarkable circumstances. The first time that the physician heard the voice of Mrs. Arnett was over the long-distance telephone, he having been introduced to her through a matrimonial bureau.

Before speaking to her he had not exchanged a word with any woman, in pursuance of a vow made upon the death of his second wife, in 1912.

She was up last July, whereupon he published a memorial to his lamented wife and sought a worthy successor to her.

Mrs. Arnett was responsible for the statement that the suggestion that she be not seen until after the marriage did not come from her but from Dr. Hartley. She asserted that she did not even know what his reasons were for making such a strange request. She was perfectly willing to comply, however, and even advised all pretty girls to pursue the same course. "As long as the brides are all they should be morally and physically," she is reported to have said, "it would be a good thing if their future husbands had not seen them beforehand."

"In the future," she remarked complacently, "Dr. Hartley would never be able to tell her that he had married her for her looks. If she were passably fair to look upon he would be satisfied; if she were more than that he would be the more agreeably surprised."

Two weddings will be arranged, one at the parsonage and the other in the church. Dr. Hartley was known in England under the name of Hellyer, and in order to insure everything being legal he will be married under both names. During both ceremonies Mrs. Arnett agreed to wear a veil, no filmy breath of tulle, which only softens the charms that it is supposed to conceal, but a veil that should actually mask the face. The bridegroom was under honor not to peep until the fateful words had been spoken that bound them together as man and wife. According to his statement, he never even saw a picture of the woman he asked to marry him, had talked with no one about her appearance and was prepared to be taken entirely by surprise when his eyes rested upon her, his lawful, wedded wife.

HIGHLAND METHODIST

Rev. William McLean Preached on the Tenth Commandment—Rev. George H. Dean to Speak Sunday Night

"The Tenth Commandment" was the subject of Rev. William H. McLean at the Highland Methodist church last night. It was announced that Rev. George H. Dean, formerly of St. Paul's church, will speak at the service next Sunday night.

Mr. McLean said that the tenth commandment is the most important of all commandments, because if it is obeyed all others will be obeyed. "Thou shalt not covet" is a commandment of the heart. Covetousness is the cause of the violation of all the other commandments. It is back of murder and theft and causes us to bear false witness. On the statute books you do not find any law relating to covetousness because it is a commandment of the heart.

Original sin arose from covetousness. In this there is every possibility relative to evil. The unbridled desire of the heart initiates the sin. About gold there is a great lure for men, and the frenzied desire for the shining metal is responsible for much evil. The lure of gold is the lure of death. What does it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?

COLORED PEOPLE

Result of Investigation of Segregation in the Federal Departments

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today made public the report of a special agent sent to Washington to investigate the segregation of white and colored employees in government departments. The investigation was made as the result of many complaints and inquiries. The association has twenty branches throughout the country. Moorfield Storey of Boston is president; Oswald G. Villard of New York is chairman of the board of directors, which includes, among others, Miss Jane Adams and Miss Lillian D. Wald.

"The effect of segregation," says the report, "is degrading. Competition has been eliminated. Those segregated are regarded almost as lepers and get what no one else wants. Segregation in work has been effected so far without official orders. Generally the excuse is a readjustment of work to increase efficiency."

Taking up individual departments, the report says: "In the miscellaneous and examining division of the bureau of engraving and printing, workers have been paired according to race. In the dead letter office of the post office department colored employees have been segregated back of a row of lockers in a corner of the room. In fact in the department of the room."

In the treasury building segregated colored clerks have not yet been segregated, but it seems to be understood that as many as possible are to be segregated in the registry division.

"In the office of the auditor for the post office segregation seems to have been most strictly worked out. In the bureau of colored men operate what is known as the 'gang punch' and in another room, the force working at the 'assorting machines' is entirely colored."

"In the bureau of engraving and printing, the lunch room assigned to the colored women is unsanitary. In the post office department there is no lunch room at all for colored help. In the office of the auditor for the post office, the colored women were taken from light airy rooms and placed in an unpleasant alcove. In the dead letter office, where the colored workers have been grouped back of a row of lockers, the part of the room chosen is least desirable.

"As far as could be ascertained, only one official has given the colored people an opportunity to express their opinion of the policy of segregation. Arrangements for segregation had been made in all of the divisions of the division bureau, but when the chief of the division learned that the colored employees were opposed to separation, he gave them an opportunity to vote on the matter. They were unanimous in their opposition."

MACHINE GUN TEST

Transferred From Springfield to Fort Sill, Okla., by Order of the War Department

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 17.—The test of rapid-fire machine guns which has been pursued at the United States armory since Sept. 15, has been transferred from this city to Ft. Sill, Okla., by order of the war department, and all of the officers who were assigned as members of the test board have been ordered to report at that place and remain until the tests are completed.

The order comes as the result of the conclusion of all of the tests scheduled to be made at the local armory and the further tests will be in the nature of field work; in other words, to place the guns in the hands of troops for actual field demonstration.

All of the guns which are under test by the army officers are of the light variety, which are light enough to be "packed" by troops, or carried in whole or part by members of the field artillery. The test was made as the result of an invitation by the war department to private makers of machine guns to enter an open test in which the types of machine guns now manufactured by the government also would be entered.

The test which has been going on in the local armory since Sept. 15 has been in the nature of trials of the types of the steel, resistance, friction and other qualities in the actual manufacture of the guns. About a half dozen manufacturers, representing this and European countries, responded to the invitation and more than a dozen types of guns were tested.

The tests at Ft. Sill will be in the hands of the field artillery. Troops will be given each type of gun in turn and certain field tests will be gone through, such as setting up, packing, carrying and firing under all conditions. The weight and convenience in carrying the guns also will be considered in addition to the force and distance of shots discharged.

JUVENILE WAVE OF CRIME

Two More Shot Yesterday—Four Dead, Three Seriously Injured, One Nearly Hanged

JUVENILE TRAGEDIES OF ONE WEEK

Nov. 11.—James Holmes, Bristol, R. I., 9, stabbed; dying.

Nov. 13.—Mary Joyce, South Boston, 12, shot to death. Alphonse Carilli, East Boston, 21, arrested for threats with revolver. Bertha St. Pierre, Fall River, 7, killed by blow with stick. Frank Kaneankowitz, New York, 4, almost hanged.

Nov. 15.—Aimee Oumette, Danvers, 17, accidentally shot. Charles Southwick, Peabody, 3, accidentally shot and killed.

Nov. 16.—Amos Boardman, Bridgewater, 8, accidentally shot; dying. Leroy Robinson, Dragsdon, N. J., 18, shot to death.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Four children, ranging in age from 3 to 18, are dead, slain by other children; one youth of 21 is under arrest charged with threatening another with a revolver; three children are dangerously ill from gunshot, or stab wounds inflicted by companions, and one lad of 4 narrowly escaped being hanged by boyish playmates.

Such is the gruesome toll of one of the saddest weeks for many years—a week during which one childish crime or fatal accident followed upon the heels of another with almost the regularity of an epidemic.

Of the nine tragedies recorded, four of them fatal. New England was the scene of all but two, and Greater Boston numbered four of the seven. Like the epidemic of suicide that invariably follows a particularly notorious voluntary death, the shootings and the stabblings, with but one exception, followed in the wake of 12-year-old Mary

Joyce's death in South Boston.

The latest addition to the list of dead or dying came yesterday when a boy of 5 was shot through the abdomen by his 13-year-old playmate, and a youth of 18 instantly killed by a discharge of birdshot fired directly into his face by another boy of 13.

In Bridgewater, Amos Boardman was playing with Ernest Davis as the latter cleaned a 22-caliber revolver. It was the usual case of "didn't know it was loaded." The victim may die.

Dr. W. S. Whitcomb, called to attend the lad, ordered his removal to the Brockton hospital, where the surgeons found that the bullet had made 17 punctures in the intestines, a record for the hospital.

In Millville, N. J., farthest removed as yet from the scene of the last recorded fatal shooting of a child, Leroy Robinson of Dragsdon was instantly killed by 13-year-old Teddy Laws.

Robinson and a companion were driving near Dividing creek when Laws

"THE HOLY CITY"

Gaul's Beautiful Cantata Given at Worthen Street Baptist Church

Rev. Francis Marsten, D. D., secretary of the Massachusetts Bible society, preached, Sunday morning, at the Worthen Street Baptist church and in the evening Alfred Gaul's cantata, "The Holy City," was sung by an augmented choir of a dozen voices, in connection with the regular services. The members of the choir were Miss Etta Thompson, Mrs. Garfield Horne and Mrs. N. J. Marston, sopranos; Mrs. E. A. Leachy, Miss Marion MacKnight and Miss Ida Woodies, altos; E. R. Wirt, John Brown and Carl Mason, tenors; G. S. Drew, Donald Hanson and Robert Stevenson, basses. The soloists were Miss Thompson, Mrs. Leachy, Mr. Wirt and Mr. Drew.

"The Holy City" was the subject of Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost's sermon. He showed how those of the past had started to live the right life and had reached within sight of the coveted goal and then fell by the wayside. He asked how many people in the present day are in the very dangerous position of "almost being a Christian." "This is a very dangerous position to find yourself in," said the speaker. "Seek out what is righteous and best and do your part in landing beyond the goal."

First Baptist Church

"Do not forgetful to entertain strangers, for some thereby have entertained angels unawares." This was the starting point of H. S. Pinkham's sermon on "Hospitality" at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. Mr. Pinkham wants his church to be known as "the church with the cordial welcome." He said hospitality is the spirit of the average church today.

There may be some foundation for criticism that have been made upon churches as cold and unwelcoming, but in general he did not believe such is true in even a small proportion of the houses of worship.

"Opportunities and How Men Meet Them," is the general title of a series of evening sermons, the first one of which was preached in the evening on "The Man Who Misses His Opportunity." The text was 1 Kings, 20:40.

"And as thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone." The preacher spoke of the folly of wasting precious time when by using even the spare moments one may become educated in history, literature and science.

Most important of all, he said, was the study of the Bible, the book that builds character. It is the duty of every man, he said, carefully to study this great book. The one great need of the church today is walking with God in prayer, and we must not be so busy as to neglect this important devotion. Prayer of request, of communion and of intercession is the duty and privilege of every one of God's children.

MANCHESTER DEFEATED

LOWELL Y. M. C. A. SWIMMERS WIN CLOSE SWIMMING MEET FROM QUEEN CITY RIVALS

In a dual swimming meet which resulted in the closest event of its kind yet engaged in by the local Y. M. C. A. swimmers the locals brought home the bacon over Manchester. Y. M. C. Captain Jackson Palmer, the local swimming crack, was in no condition to don his swimming regalia on account of an old injury to his knee received on the gridiron while in college, but responded to his team's cry for help when Kennedy started away with all the first places in the various events. Palmer was greatly instrumental in the victory of his team over Kennedy.

The Manchester crack won no less than four firsts for his team. He was equally at home in either the twenty yard event or for the furlough although Welsh and Gallagher of the locals went out after him in the latter event.

In the fifty yard affair, Palmer seemed to be practically tied with Kennedy but the judges awarded first place to the visitor. He also showed great form in the hundred yard and fifty yard events.

220 yards—Won by Kennedy, Manchester; Welch, Lowell, second; Gallagher, Lowell, third. Time 3m. 35s.

75th ANNIVERSARY

a social success. He questioned the attitude of men and women is the same toward the church today as it was a century ago. How many are willing to undergo social ostracism, or any discomfort because they are members of a church? He said that it is longer he is connected with church work the more strongly he feels that it is one of the most vital powers in the life of the whole world; and that the life of this city would be on a far lower level had it not been for the spiritual power and leadership of the Christian church. In closing, he asked the people of the Grace church to take a new hold on life and as one act of consecration he asked them to wipe out a debt that was incurred by installing a new heating plant at an expense of several hundred dollars.

Rev. Charles Conklin spoke briefly as follows:

"I am especially glad of the fact that in your celebration you are in the midst of prosperity, with a future of great promise before you. You have gone from smaller to larger things, from limited environment to a more generous field of occupation. You have kept together in the same spirit of devotion and self-sacrifice which characterized you in the beginning. The old spirit which made organized Universalism possible in Lowell, fired up and found expression in this splendid house of worship, almost cleared of debt. You have shown the world that Universalists can sacrifice—that they can show zeal, faith and devotion."

"There are people who tell us that the Christian church as a whole is becoming decadent, that religion is becoming less and less a vital force in the community. I want to say to you that religion itself was never so potent as in the life of our city. It is today, when men declare otherwise, it is because religion has failed in them, and not in the world; or rather, because they have failed religion, and not because religion has failed them or the world. Mankind is incurably religious."

Fathers stood for a better, larger and more adequate view of life. There were good things in the old theology, but there were better things ready to dawn, and our fathers caught the new dawn. They gave the world a better and truer and more human idea of Jesus Christ. The world looked upon Jesus as some mysterious, unnatural, unhuman being, occupying some mysterious place between man and God. Universalism said, Jesus Christ is our elder brother, and what he was in every way, we are to be.

"Certainly, our fathers gave to the world a larger idea of the future, a more satisfactory and comforting view of the great hereafter."

The Evening Service

Congratulations were offered to the members and pastor of the Grace church last night by ministers from other churches within and without this city. Among clergymen representing local churches were Rev. Chas. T. Billings and Rev. Caleb E. Fisher. And both spoke interestingly on the Universalist churches of this city.

Rev. Ransom A. Greene, D. D., a former pastor of the Grace church spoke on "The Past of Universalism." He said in part:

"Universalism has proven one of the most far-reaching and spiritually uplifting movements of comparatively modern times. I do not claim that it equals in its numerical strength certain of the evangelistic movements. It has never adopted the methods of the evangelical churches. It has never sought to stir peculiarly the emotions. Its strength has never been computed by its numerical strength. It never asked the people to fear God. It never pictured God as a dreadful being. It has been a sort of protest against a certain theology, against dogma, that it believes to be wrong. It has made an appeal to the mind and understanding. It has never made a great deal of noise. It has never been drunk with its own spirit. It has never believed that this world is a lost world. It has a sublime faith in God and the ultimate issues of life. As a leavening and transforming influence it has achieved a great work. But it has not confined itself to certain forms of hope and belief."

One reason lies in the fact of our intense individualism. And that is a reason also that our churches have not multiplied more rapidly. We have never been able to stand centralized authority; we have raised the banner of independence, and have followed it, while we have not followed some other banners. And this has been a mistake to an extent that has cost us an enormous price. Those churches that have recognized some form of centralized authority have grown and are going great work. Other churches have been more easily satisfied with the signs of outside power than have we. Our paucity of numbers can be accounted for in only one way, and that is due to the fact that we have not recognized that centralized power. We have felt that we would be better satisfied with our small numbers and be independent than to have a glorious number of followers and recognize an authority."

Rev. Vincent Tomlinson, D. D., of Worcester, was introduced and spoke on "Universalism of the Present," saying in part:

"We are proud of what the Universalist church has done, but we must now allow it to rest on its laurels. If we can make this church indispensable to the community then we can make it the greatest force for right. That is the aim today: to make Universalism something which shall appeal to the very best of heart as well as of mind. Somebody has said that the great point of view changes every 30 years. That means that the point of view regarding education, politics and religious matters changes within that period of time."

"What are the things uppermost in the minds of men? We are living in a time when the searchlight is being aimed at everything. Men and things must live on their merits. Efficiency and conservation are the watchwords of this age. And one of the tests which is being applied to all things is whether we, or the things we represent, have a living message."

Rev. Clarence R. Skinner closed the evening service with brief remarks on "Universalism of the Future."

Children are sliding down hill. The orange "bricks" under the wing of Miss Boutelle have a well-populated poultry yard and modern hen houses that stand as a rebuke to those who call the association a hen yard. A purple garage with a good looking machine in front is the possession of the purple team, which is captained by Mrs. F. F. Munn.

Wednesday at eight o'clock is destined to produce the fiercest fight of the fall when all the teams meet to celebrate their victories. Features in keeping with the affair are being planned and a very hilarious time is assured. Everyone who has billed wearing the brick tag which shows the team that has been worked for.

JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

MANCHESTER MAN WHO HURLED HIMSELF FROM WINDOW GOT UP AND JUMPED INTO RIVER

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—While in a fit of insanity Haroldsas Fournier, 42 years old, a carpenter, residing at 194 McGregor street, threw himself into the "rddy" of the Merrimack river yesterday. The current immediately seized him and the man was drowned before the eyes of his son and a crowd of several hundred who had followed him.

He had previously been caught in the act of jumping from his bedroom window by his son, who grabbed him by the suspenders. The son held him dangling outside until the suspenders broke and the crazed man landed in a net of telephone wires below.

The son and a passing policeman then attempted to catch him when he fell from the wires, but were unsuccessful. The fall, however, apparently did not hurt Fournier, for he jumped to his feet and, practically without clothes, started for the Merrimack river, a mile away. Before he could be captured he had jumped in.

Lowell high does not look like a 10 to 10 by the Indians and Yale tying up Princeton 3 to 3 is something unprecedented in gridiron history.

Lawrence high will not play Haverhill this season so that the only way that the two teams can be compared is by the game with Lowell. This at best is a poor way to size up a team's strength or weakness. Nashua high held Manchester to a no score tie. Lowell beat Nashua 25 to 0 and then Manchester turns about and administered a 15 to 0 defeat to Lowell. That is as far as football comparisons go.

The schedule seemed to be Manchester vs. Lowell Saturday in all branches of sport. The two high school teams met, the Buntings played the Light Blues of Manchester and the swimming teams of the Y. M. C. A. met in the Lowell tank. Lowell pulled one victory, the swimming meet.

Charlie Brickley would not be denied his drop kick Saturday and nearly dropped another one over from the 55 yard line. If Brickley had only had a crisper more direction to his boot he would have accomplished a wonderful feat.

A white hope championship contest is about what will take place at the Boston club tonight when Sam Langford and Gunboat exchange wallop. Langford says that he cannot be knocked out by Smith and vice versa.

A glorious welcome is planned for the reception of the Arlington high cross country team which won the championship of the schoolboy teams that gathered in Ithaca for the meet held last Saturday for interscholastics only. The boys will be feted to their heart's content.

Oh, you football dooper! The rest of them are shaking their heads today the same as we are for the result of Saturday's two big games was certainly an awful shock to the nervous system. Dartmouth to be beaten 35

If Dartmouth had won the Carlisle game her stock would have soared high for the championship. If Yale defeats or even ties Harvard, Dartmouth will rank in the front row. Penna and the Indians played a 7 to 7 tie. Dartmouth's offensive machine scores 55 points on Penna's heavier outfit and then the Indians turn around and pass out Saturday's facing. Can you beat it?

It was a clinch that Harvard would defeat Brown but the score was rather larger than was expected. The Providence boys were all in and played listless football against the Crimson. The subs scored 20 points to the regulars' 17 so the weakness of Brown was plainly apparent.

Ernest Nelson, the stocky center of the Excelsior Soccer team, lived up to his promise Saturday and sure enough gave a correct imitation of a "come-back." Nelson was all over the field and his work around the Wampanoag goal was excellent. He shot in three of his team's six goals and each one was a difficult performance.

"They are now talking about a Harvard-Dartmouth game once more. Mayor Fitz of Boston is very desirous of bringing the two teams together again and has made rather a broad statement as to Harvard's attitude in the matter.

Duhamel, the star full back of the Lawrence high eleven last season, is playing a whirlwind game for the Dartmouth Freshmen. Duhamel has the makings of a varsity back and Coach Cavanaugh will make a good man out of him before he leaves the Hanover institution.

"The friends of Charlie Carter will be pleased to know that he has 'made' the football team at Mercersburg academy. Charles is laid up just now with an injury received in a recent game. He is looked upon as one of the best ends that has entered the school for a long time.

PROMINENT PLAYERS OF THE YALE HARVARD FOOTBALL
TEAMS WHICH WILL BATTLE ON NOVEMBER 22ND

The Yale-Harvard football game occurs Nov. 22 at Cambridge. The Crimson team is the favorite owing to the superior showing it has made in the big games, and Captain Storer believes his husky athletes will defeat the Elis by not less than fifteen points. Brickley, the great Harvard goal kicker; Bradlee, the able line tearer, and Eddie Mahan, in the back field, are calculated to lead the attack on the New Haven eleven. Captain Ketcham, Guernsey and the sturdy Pendleton are the trio that the Yale backers depend on to retrieve the early season defeats. The scene in the accompanying group cut shows a play in the Harvard-Yale game of a year ago at New Haven.

LOST AT SOCCER

Buntings Beaten by the Light Blues in Fast Game at Manchester

The Light Blues, the team which represents Manchester in the Lowell-Lawrence and vicinity soccer league, defeated the Bunting team Saturday in a strenuous contest on the grounds of the former. The final score of the game was 5 to 2.

The local team made two tallies before their opponents waked up and got into the game. When once started on its way toward victory the Light Blues are known throughout soccer circles to be the hardest aggregation in the league to stop. In the second period the Lowell players were 'swept off' their feet. The summary and lineup:

former years. The veteran is loath to admit that the younger generation is capable of developing either line or backfield stars who outrank in football ability such stars as Heflinger, Moffat, Brookings, Poe, Ames, Corwin, Lamar, McClung and Hare.

Much material for use in this annual controversy between the players of today and yesterday has been furnished by Parke Davis, who delights to delve into ancient football records and emerge with all sorts of interesting data which well together the past and present in gridiron history. One of his latest efforts in this direction is the compiling of a list of full length field runs. It so happens that a Yale player first achieved this spectacular feat, and to add to the occasion it was against a Harvard eleven. R. W. Watson, captain of the Yale team of 1880, was the hero, and additional honor accrued to the Eli leader in that he was the first Yale player to score a touchdown against Harvard. The Crimson had been previously defeated by Yale, but always by field goals, and Watson was the pioneer of a long line of Yale players who have carried the ball across the Harvard goal line. Davis tells the tale as follows:

"A search through the accounts of the games from 1871 to 1881 finds only a single instance of a full-field run from kick-off to touchdown. Harvard was playing Yale at Boston, November 20, 1880. A hard, grueling battle was drawing to a close, without a score by either eleven. Just as the minutes were beginning, Walter Camp kicked a goal from the field for Yale. The teams quickly lined up for a kick-off, and Cutts, of Harvard, sent a long swirling kick to Yale's twenty-yard line, where it was caught by R. W. Watson, captain of Yale. With the catch of the ball Watson leaped into flight and sped straight up the center of the field. The Harvard men did not mass upon him in that primitive day, as would now occur, but met him with a scattered formation. Through this broken field Watson raced and dodged, flinging off tackler after tackler, and crossed the line, scoring the first touchdown ever scored against Harvard by Yale."

The rifle teams representing the various universities in the Intercollegiate Rifle league are to be re-classified this winter. The United States war department and the National Rifle association are co-operating for the new classification for competing teams in the gallery shooting championship of the United States. Formerly there were two divisions, designated as the eastern league and the western league, but the plan has been changed so that now the classification will be according to the record of efficiency. There still remain two divisions, of which one will be known as class A and the other as class B. The standing of the different college teams at the present time under the new ruling is based on the records made in the Intercollegiate league matches of 1912. Class A is to consist of the twelve colleges whose averages were the highest in those matches, and Class B is to consist of the rest of the teams in the competition.

INTERNATIONAL REGATTA

Has Taken Precedence Over All
Other Sporting Events Among English Sportsmen

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Although close to twelve months must elapse before the challenging and defending yachts meet in the races which will decide possession of the America's cup, the international regatta has already taken precedence over all other sporting events among English sportsmen. It is apparent that the polo and tennis invasions of the states in 1914 will be considered secondary to Sir Thomas Lipton's efforts to regain the famous cup which stands for supremacy in ocean sailing competition. Already the chances of the challenger, just beginning to take form, are being weighed and discussed by sportsmen, and the man in the street is beginning to test his tongue on nautical terms. The impression appears to prevail in the general sporting circles of England that the chances of winning the America's cup are better than in the case of either the polo or tennis trophies, due to the fact that the question of physical equation will be reduced to a minimum. England is not willing to concede that in the handling and sailing of a racing yacht the Yankee tars, either amateur or professional, have any advantage over the English salt.

In other respects the general opinion is to the effect that the edge is with the defending nation. Although hopeful, it is pointed out by English yachting authorities that Sir Thomas, in the role of challenger, will be handicapped by conditions which do not need to be considered by the defending yachtsmen. The question of type and towing boom large in English yachting circles, and much space is being devoted to a discussion of these points. A prominent authority recently expressed the following views on these subjects:

"Next year, notwithstanding anything that may be said to the contrary, we consider the contest will proceed in the same groove in which it has run since 1881, that is to say, it will be between extreme vessels. In these circumstances, Sir Thomas Lipton cannot fail to find himself at a great disadvantage. He must build a very light vessel and tune her up in British waters, he must then unrig her and lose a lot of valuable time sailing her across the Atlantic under a jury rig. In America she will have to be re-rigged and tuned up again in time for the first match on September 10, 1914, when the great contest will take place.

With so many obstacles in his way, it is fair to hope his opponents will give him credit for his sportsmanship, and make it as easy for him as possible to bring his new Shamrock to the starting line in good trim. They might well assist him by placing no restrictions upon towing the yacht when the weather makes it difficult for her to sail during her ocean passage. We believe the cup will be defended by a yacht of her own waterline length, and it is satisfactory to learn that the members of the New York Yacht club, who are connected with the defense of the trophy, are the leading yachtsmen of America. So far, the score as to actual races and the measurement rules and the sailing rules are concerned, there can be no cause for complaint, for the match will be a fair one. The disadvantages to which a challenger is subjected—many of which are insuperable in modern times so long as the present conditions attached to the cup by the New York club prevail—are so numerous that every yachtsman knows that Sir Thomas Lipton has entered upon a herculean task."

With the playing of the Harvard-Yale game at Cambridge on Saturday, the climax of the eastern football will have been reached. Notwithstanding the wide difference in the season's records of the two elevens, interest in the game is greater this year than ever before. Gridiron stars of former decades are flocking to both New Haven and Cambridge to witness and assist in putting the final touches on the two teams which will meet in Harvard's famous stadium for the final battle of the season's schedules. With the gathering of the old timers comes a revival of the tales of prowess by-players of

WOLGAST HOLDS RECORD

Ad Wolgast—the young man with barkroll and jinx attachment—both being full grown and well developed.

For the benefit of strangers let it be explained that Wolgast is a savage like the boxer who whipped every 133-pounder of his day. He won, honorably defended and finally lost the world's light-weight championship. Incidentally Ad earned a fortune of over $200,000, saved the greater part of it, and suffered a string of misfortunes, as starting a line of accidents and ailments as ever followed a man of the ring.

A detailed list of Ad's mourning periods—we may have overlooked a few minor items at that—is as follows: 1905—Left ear "cauliflowered" into a bowknot.

1907—Right ear scrambled to match.

1908—Toes in both hands cracked and knocked out of joint.

1909—Bridge of nose caved in. Surgical operation necessary.

FIELDING FASTER

In the American League

in 1913 Than in 1912—

876 Double Plays

That the fielding in the American League was faster in 1913 than it was in 1912 is evidenced by the fact that last season the clubs of the junior organization made sixty-four more double plays than they did during the preceding campaign, the figures for the two years being, respectively, 876 and 812.

The Cleveland Naps again carried off the honors in manufacturing two-plays retirements, they being credited with 125 dual slaughters as against 125 in 1912. The Browns contributed 127 double plays, the Nationals 117, the White Elephants 111, the Tigers 110, the White Sox 108, the Yankees 95 and the Red Sox 75.

The team that showed the greatest increase in double plays over the previous season was Washington, Griffith's Climbers producing 27 more double demises in 1913 than they did in 1912.

The Nationals equaled an American league record by doubling up the Highlanders five times on September 26, Joe Boshing being on the rubber for the District of Columbia team.

Twice the Griffiths made four double plays behind Walter Johnson, the shut-out and strike-out king of 1913, who received a Chalmers car for being the player most valuable to his team in the American league.

The dates they did this were June 19 and July 13, the teams they played against being Detroit and Cleveland. On three other occasions the Naps rapped into a quartet of dual murders, the teams that assassinated them being St. Louis, on July 2, and New York, on July 15 and 25.

The American leaguer of 1913 who took part in the greatest number of double plays was Arnold Gandil, Washington's first baseman. He cut into 53, thus equalling the mark made by Jack McInnis, the 1912 leader.

McInnis forced his way into 53 dual slaughters last season, Johnson of Cleveland was in 50; Weaver of Chicago in 47; Chase of Chicago in 40; Pratt of St. Louis in 35; Bush of Detroit in 33; Barry of Philadelphia in 32; McBride of Washington in 32; Collins of Philadelphia in 31; Chapman of Cleveland in 30; Lajoie of Cleveland in 29; Engle of Boston in 28 and Garner of Detroit in 26.

The players who took the initiative oftentimes in double plays were Bush of Detroit and Chapman of Cleveland. Each shortstop started 29. Eddie Collins of the White Elephants made the first move in 25 and Jack Barry, another of Mack's Mastodons, inaugurated 26.

Two unassisted double plays were made by outfielders, the men who turned this seldom trick being Graney of Cleveland against St. Louis on June 1 and Olding of Philadelphia against Cleveland on September 16.

The fastest infielding legend of 1913 in the American league, positions on it being won by the men who participated in the greatest number of double plays, would have Eddie Collins and Ray Schalk as its battery. "Chic" Gandil, Derrill Pratt, Frank Baker and George Weaver in the infield, and "Birdie" Cree, Bert Shotton and either Harry Hooper or Joe Jackson in the outfield. The figures below show the number of double plays they started and helped in:

MANCHESTER THE VICTOR

ROANE

LOWELL, HIGH'S SLASHING ENDS

Defeats Lowell in Gridiron Tussle in New Hampshire City—Brunelle, Roane and Cahill the Stars

Manchester high upset the football team Saturday afternoon and wallowed Lowell high to the tune of 15 to 0 in the fastest game seen on the Manchester gridiron this year. The local team was the favorite before the start of the contest.

The New Hampshire team deserved the victory without the shadow of a doubt. They were faster in every sense of the term and played better football at all stages of the game.

The Manchester-Lowell high school game was sandwiched in between the games of the St. Anselm-Dartmouth freshmen game and as a result of the public attraction, a large crowd was in attendance.

The Dartmouth freshmen were returned the winners in this contest by the score of 23 to 0. Manchester's aggressive right tackle, was ruled out early in the game or alleged roughing and the distance owed to the Lowell goal line. The game was then given to Manchester, in compliance with the rules, and a drop kick from the toe of Murray resulted shortly afterward.

Manchester's two touch downs came the result of straight football, mixed with a few forward passes and brace of blood-stirring end runs. Captain Connelly and Hurley, the full back, played a spectacular game for Manchester.

Acting Captain Danny Brunelle, Roane and Cahill played a whirlwind game for the local team and tried their hardest to slave off defeat. Brunelle got many tackles behind the line, while both Roane and Cahill broke through and snatched several plays before they were fairly started.

CEMETERY TO BE SOLD

Negotiations on to Transfer St. Peter's Burying Grounds for Addition to St. Patrick's

Negotiations are pending for the sale of St. Peter's cemetery, now the property of a syndicate, to His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell. Judge Thomas J. Enright is representing Rt. Rev. Mgr. William O'Brien, who is acting in the interests of the cardinal in the matter of this sale.

St. Peter's cemetery comprises 20 acres of land and is located off Spencer street and the Boston road, in the rear of St. Patrick's cemetery. It is believed that it is the intention of the cardinal to add this to St. Patrick's cemetery. For the holders of the cemetery the negotiations are in the hands of Mr. Henry J. O'Dowd, a local insurance man, residing at 423 High street. Others interested in the cemetery at present are Joseph P. Cavanaugh of Manchester, Harry Raynes of Lowell and Joseph Molloy of Lowell. It is understood that an agreement as to price has been reached and that nothing now delays the transfer but the matter of looking up the title.

Attendant at Tewksbury Fined for Assault on Boy

Case Was Heard in Court Today—Other Cases Disposed of

There was something doing out at the Tewksbury hospital last Saturday afternoon and the matter was thrashed out in police court this morning before Judge Enright. Thomas Grant was charged with assault and battery upon fifteen year old William Letourneau and pleaded not guilty. The complaint was taken out by Dr. George A. Pierce, superintendent of the hospital.

The boy was the first witness and, in response to questions from Supt. Welch told the story in detail. It appears that the defendant is employed in the culinary department at the hospital and meets the inmates more or less while going about his duties.

William, once that he got up his courage, talked very volubly of the affair. He said that he and Grant did

Union Firemen in Textile Mills Quit Work Today—May Force Mills to Shut Down

LAWRENCE, Nov. 17.—The union firemen in the textile mills in this city were on strike today. In pursuance of their vote of yesterday to strike unless their demand for an eight hour day was granted, the men went to the mills this morning, started the fires, then walked out. The strikers number about 450.

Should the strike be long continued the mills employing 35,000 operatives would be forced to shut down on account of the provision in the law prohibiting the running of a manufacturing establishment for more than one week without licensed firemen. The manufacturers have not yet indicated whether they will attempt to fill the places of the strikers. The chamber of commerce has offered its services in an effort to bring about an agreement. The firemen now work twelve hours a day and the union claims that many are forced to work seven days a week. Before voting to strike, the union rejected a compromise offer from the manufacturers of a 60 hour week with two days off in seven.

Agent Walter E. Parker of the Pacific mills, in which 60 of the striking firemen were employed, stated this afternoon that the Pacific intends to continue to run the plant during the strike.

HON. JAMES E. O'DONNELL,
Mayor of Lowell.

To My Fellow Citizens:

Again I request your attention to the caucuses tomorrow and respectfully solicit your endorsement of my administration as Mayor—

BECAUSE, I have fairly and faithfully endeavored to discharge the various and onerous duties incumbent upon me as your chief executive, and

BECAUSE, I realized at all times and upon all occasions, however exalted or however humble, that the dignity of the office had to be maintained and the honor conferred upon me respected, and

BECAUSE, I felt that the good name of our city as a manufacturing and civic centre should always be upheld and that those who would dare traduce it, whether for self or patronage, should be repudiated and condemned, and

BECAUSE, I have devoted my entire time to the duties of the office, sacrificing personal pleasures and professional profits, in order that my first term as mayor should equal, if not exceed in efficiency the highest standard obtained by any of my illustrious predecessors, and

BECAUSE, I am impelled to believe that my efforts to serve my native city as its chief executive have borne substantial results, honorable alike to me and to you, notwithstanding the billingsgate of those who would now minimize and revile me, and

BECAUSE, the spirit of fair play and a regard for the time honored custom of bestowing a second term as the reward of faithful stewardship justifies me in the belief that you will accord me by your votes tomorrow such an endorsement as will fittingly rebuke those who would rely upon calumny for campaign material.

ITS 75TH ANNIVERSARY

THE GRACE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

Observed by Grace Church—Addresses by Mr. H.H. Harris and Several Clergymen

The founding of the Grace Universalist church society was celebrated yesterday, its 75th anniversary, at the morning and evening services of that church in the Highlands. Rev. Charles Conklin, D. D., superintendent of Universalist church work in Massachusetts, spoke at the morning service and there were remarks suitable to the occasion by Rev. C. R. Skinner. The music by the quartet choir was of unusual excellence, but the main part of the observance was a splendid historical address by Mr. Henry H. Harris, who has been a member of the church since it was called the Second Universalist. His address follows:

We are today looking back three-quarters of a century upon a most interesting event, the dedication of the first church home of our own society. So far as I know, there is no one with a sound of my voice who was privileged to be in attendance on that occasion. I doubt whether there is anyone here who remembers the little red school house near Hale's mill at Davis' corner, where the first Universalist sermon was preached. The story of those early days of Universalism in Lowell is no longer to be obtained from the mouths of those who took an active part in them, but must be learned by looking through old letters, reports, and files of contemporary newspapers. There are at least two authoritative compilations that concern the subject and which are very suggestive and interesting, and it is from these that much of the material of my story has been drawn. They are the printed account of the exercises in 1838, commemorating the 40th anniversary of the dedication of the First Universalist church, of the "Historical Sketch of the Second Universalist Society of Lowell," read by the pastor, Rev. W. G. Haskell, in 1874.

Seventy-five years is a long time—sufficiently long for great changes in public opinion to take place, and it is somewhat difficult for us in this 20th century fully to appreciate how radical and outside the belief in the final harmony of all souls with God was felt to be, by a large majority of the people, at the time when this church was organized. Nearly the whole community had been educated to look upon anything that savored of Universalism as only infidelity, under the disguise of the Christian name, and they who mainly controlled the industrial enterprises and directed the action of the incorporated power of Lowell, doubtless thought they saw in the establishment of a Universalist society the inauguration of an influence detrimental to the general interest of the community. And holding in their hands the controlling power of employment they did not hesitate to oppose the new doctrine by every means that those of reason and argument. The First Universalist society was founded in 1827 by men who were mostly leaders in the mechanical and manufacturing work in the town, and at the heads of their respective posts in their various callings. Though having for years occupied prominent positions, with the full approval and entire satisfaction of those who had employed them, within a single year from the time when their names were published as officers of the new society, not one of them was permitted to remain in his position. Nor could there remain a doubt in the mind of any one conversant with the facts in the case, that this alone doomed them to the sacrifice, since open declarations were made that whoever aided in the work should fall.

The speaker then gave the testimony of one who had suffered because of his adherence to the little understood faith. After dwelling on some facts of its early history locally, he continued: "I trust that the statement that the new society was made up of 50 male members has not escaped your notice. The fact was, as is attested by several writers of the time, that so great was the edium intended to follow the new movement, but few females found courage to make themselves a part of the congregations for a considerable time, and one historian speaks of the great joy of the congregation, when the first female singer volunteered her excellent services as a member of the choir."

If there is any one who entertains a doubt as to whether the profession of faith adopted at Winchester, N. H., in 1828, has made its appeal to men alone, he has but to consult the relative number of men and of women in any congregation at the present time. Meetings continued to be held in the city hall, the services of various clergymen being obtained for the purpose, until the Rev. Zenas Thompson, of Andover, was invited to preach two Sundays with a view of settlement. He complied and gave great satisfaction, with the result that on February 5, 1832, he was installed as pastor, being extended the right hand of fellowship by the Rev. O. A. Skinner, a distant relative of our present much beloved pastor.

It was in the Rev. Mr. Thompson's narrative that the society erected its first church home, the dedication of which we are remembering today. Mr. Thompson took great interest and an active personal part in the plans and construction of the new building, as is testified to in a letter written last year by his daughter, Mrs. W. S. Clark, of Greenfield, Mass. Mrs. Clark writes: "As a child, I remember the meetings were in a hall, while the church was building, and I recall how busy and interested my father was in making some of the architectural drawings. We children were not welcome in the room, when he was thus occupied."

The first meeting for consultation about the new edifice was held at the home of Otis Ballard, one of the prominent members of the prudential committee. How well I remember him! How many times have I, as a boy, listened to him in the Sunday evening meetings, when he would tell the need of truth and righteousness in both public and private living, and appeal for more idealism of thought and aspiration! We will let the Rev. Mr. Thompson tell the story of that meeting and the subsequent doings, in his own words.

"We met at Brother Ballard's. We sat up around a common three-and-a-half foot table, and talked all the evening; and, when we separated, we each felt that we had made a beginning, indeed, but a very small one. We continued to meet and discuss through the ensuing winter, and early in the spring of 1838 we secured our lot, and some time in April broke ground, and commenced in earnest to make real the visions we had cherished with so much of hope for so many long months."

"About one year from the time we held our first meeting in Brother Ballard's sitting room, we had our beautiful church ready for dedication. The friends left all the arrangement of the services of dedication to me, wishing me to take such parts as I might feel disposed to, and assign to others, as I pleased. The services of the dedication were highly enjoyed."

"I remained pastor after the dedication of the church only about four months, being urgently recalled to the field of labor I left, when I went to Lowell.

"I would add that in all my various fields of labor, or pastoral charges, I have never had under my care so interesting a flock as that at Lowell. For six months, as perhaps nearly a year, at city hall, the room so large and clean, by seated with sisters that leads came almost together. I can truly say that I had the most beautiful, best dressed and splendid congregation I ever beheld. (This letter was written in 1874.) And to this fact all preachers with whom I exchanged home testimonials as was the congregation (more than a thousand persons, I do not remember but a single head that showed gray hairs. (Reference was made to Isaac Lovejoy, Esq.)

"My fellowship to the people of that congregation was strong, open and lasting. Sometimes I have reflected upon myself for leaving that dearly beloved people; but at the time I decided to do so, I was badly worn with care and hard work, and felt a desire for rest. I had been in the midst of every part of the great effort of building, had preached three or four times a week, besides other parish work; had been all the time under a strong degree of excitement, of anxiety and concern, and was really worn out. So I accepted the earnest call of my friends in Maine, and returned to my old field of labor, leaving a salary of $1250 for one of $600. This fact should go on record for the wonder and astonishment of churches and ministers of the present time."

"To some of us the names of the first officers of the society are familiar. Salton D. Pumphrey was elected moderator; David Tapley, treasurer; William B. Davis, collector; Isaac Place, James C. Hill, Hiram Clement, Otis Ballard and Holland Streeter, prudential committee."

Mr. Harris then dwelt on the pastorates of Rev. Abel C. Thomas, Rev. Alonzo A. Miner and Rev. W. G. Haskell. Summing up the work accomplished, he said:

"Did time serve it would be interesting to follow the history of the society during the various pastorates up to the present time, but I must be brief and must leave out many important matters. There was a succession of pastorates up to about the middle of the Civil war, when, with certain exceptions, the Lowell mills were at a standstill, because depression had over all industry, hundreds of Lowell citizens were on the battle-field or had returned to the country, and it is not strange that the finances of the society became so reduced that it could no longer employ a pastor. But the people did not remain long in the slough of despond; arrangements were soon made to re-

THROW AWAY YOUR EYE-GLASSES

A FREE PRESCRIPTION
You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that there is now hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them on a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Optona, fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Optona tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly night from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

sume services, and the society entered upon another period of prosperity. Rev. John G. Adams, in his pastorate of seven years, from 1865 to 1872, did much to reestablish the society on a firm foundation. He was instrumental in securing for the society the full ownership of the edifice, the dedication of which we are recognizing today. He was followed by Rev. W. G. Haskell, who was accounted to be a very able preacher."

He paid a high tribute to the personality of Rev. Ransom A. Greene, and dwelt on his long and eventful pastorate. He brought his address to a close as follows:

"To the pulpit he so long graced was called Rev. Clarence A. Skinner, from the city of Mount Vernon, N. Y., where he had already, though a young man, shown himself to be the possessor of qualities of mental leadership and spiritual grace. In the few months that he has been with the society, he has fully met all our hopes and expectations; he has with him a harmonious and united people, who are awake and enthusiastic, and who truly believe in him; and neither an interested nor a disinterested observer can see any reason to doubt that under his leadership, this society will enjoy one of the most prosperous and useful periods of its existence. And of the old church, let me say, 'Peace be within thy walls; for my brethren and companions' sake peace be within thee.'"

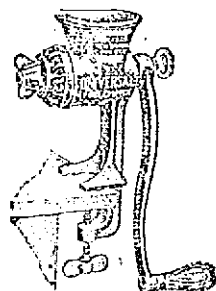

Mr. Harris was followed by Rev. Clarence R. Skinner, pastor of the church, who spoke briefly on the church of today. During his talk he brought out the fact that the minister is but a small part in the success of any church and that the cooperation of every member is needed. He asked whether the church people of today had the same feeling toward their church as their fathers did years ago. At that time the women used to labor in the cellar or carry food to the attic rooms to make

$67,000,000 BOND ISSUE

Appeal of Former Gov. Bulkeley and Other New Haven Stockholders Before Judge Sheldon

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—The appeal of former Governor Bulkeley of Connecticut and other stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. Co. from a decree of the public service commission to issue $67,000,000 in convertible bonds was before Judge Sheldon of the supreme judicial court today for the purpose of putting the case in shape to be argued before the full bench of that court which is now sitting. There are no facts in dispute and the evidence presented consisted of a condensed history of the railroad and the records of the public service commission in relation to the now contested bond and stock issue.

Nathan Matthews, who appeared for the appellants, said that although his clients were interested in securing a judicial determination of the rights of the public service commission, of far more importance were the questions of law involved. The policy of the commonwealth was at stake in the matter of issuing stock and bonds and the arbitrary and unlawful exercise of authority by the commission would tend to do away with the wise limitations that have existed since 1890 to prevent stock inflation and regulate indebtedness.

Charles P. Choate for the New York, New Haven & Hartford road and Attorney General Swift for the public service commission both argued that the action of the commission was legal under the legislative acts of 1913. If the papers can be printed in time the case will be heard by the full court this week.

As the case progressed Mr. Matthews suggested that it might be desirable for the court to have before it all the evidence heard by the public service commission to enable the court to determine whether the order of the commission was lawful.

E. D. Robbins, general counsel for the company and one of the directors, addressed the court on the question. In 1907, he said, when the panic surprised the financial business world, the New York, New Haven & Hartford road was unprepared for such an emergency. Prompt action was essential to the safety of the road and it was then that J. P. Morgan secured from the company one of the few loans made by that company and filed over its unexpected difficulties. If that loan had been delayed a week the consequences would have been disastrous, not only to the corporation but to its stockholders and the commonwealth.

It was in view of such situations which were liable to occur at any time that the states of New York and Massachusetts had created boards of public service commissioners and clothed them with highly discretionary powers to meet an emergency, he said. One of the main purposes of the act giving the Massachusetts commission its powers was to prevent technical objections which in an emergency if the commission were obliged to consider them might mean ruin to the corporation.

Mr. Choate said that if he and Mr. Matthews had been able to confer for a few minutes and talk over the question raised might be avoided. If Mr. Matthews had attended all the hearings given by the public service commission he might have realized that the commission acted on sufficient evidence in addition to their practical knowledge on matters of this kind.

KING OF BULGARIA

Ferdinand Declares His Abdication in Favor of Son Probable

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—King Ferdinand of Bulgaria who arrived yesterday in Coburg on a visit to the reigning family there, declared today that his abdication from the throne in favor of his son is possible and even probable in spite of the denial published by the Bulgarian legation here.

Austrian statesmen are understood to be doing their utmost to discourage his surrender of the throne because they consider the young crown prince, Boris, likely to be influenced by the element among the Bulgarian ministers who are friendly to Russia.

King Ferdinand, however, is receiving little encouragement in Germany, which is not disposed to assist the monarch whose star is believed to be setting. Emperor William and the German government have expressed themselves openly as friendly to Greece and it is understood that King Ferdinand, who desired to come to Berlin, was given the intimation that such a visit would be useless. King Ferdinand, who is residing incognito at the palace at Coburg spent this morning in prayer at the graves of his ancestors. He is the youngest son of the late Prince Augustus-Coburg-Gotha and was elected prince of Bulgaria on July 7, 1887. He declared himself king in 1908 and was recognized as such by the powers.

HUNTERS SMILE

Yesterday's Snow Made Tracking Easy—Many
on Warpath

The scores of hunters in the country about Lowell who had spent the chilly evenings of last week in furishing the barrels, polishing the stocks and oiling the locks of their trusty shotguns and who during the course of that delightful preparation tracked and retracked, shot and reshot deer of former seasons, were all smiles yesterday morning when on looking out their bedroom windows they saw the surrounding fields and treetops coated with a fine layer of white.

Their anticipation of easy tracking was in a measure dispelled this morning by the melting rays of our warm friend but though most of the snow had taken its way to other parts still its going left the turf in the soggy condition which hunters like. At sunrise, when the law is off for a week, the hills of Westford, North Chelmsford, Tyngsboro, and Tewksbury were being scoured by the "regulars" and quite a few new devotees of the pastime of Leatherstocking. In those sections it has been reported, however, that both deer and small game are far from numerous. Both their tracks and the sight of their antlers have been scarcer than usual this season owing, no doubt, to the continuous excursion of gunners into their haunts during the past month.

In the state thousands of hunters have secured licenses for the week's meeting. The sport is permitted in eight counties. Shotguns are the only weapons which can be used while the assistance of dogs is forbidden. Each hunter is allowed to kill only one deer; a fine of $100 being attached to the killing of more than one. With the sinking of the sun on Saturday will come the renewed protection of these animals by the state in western and southeastern parts of Massachusetts. Deer are so plentiful, it is reported, that they are a menace to the crops.

Dr. McCarthy, candidate for mayor addressed a good sized gathering at the United States Hunting Co. going over practically the same ground covered in his various other speeches. He criticized the administration of the police department, and made sweeping charges as usual.

Dr. McCarthy, candidate for mayor addressed the same audience to which Mayor O'Donnell spoke this noon at the machine shop gate in Dutton street.

John A. Osgood spoke at the Merrimack mill gate at noon and was well received.

James F. Miskella spoke at the Massachusetts mill gate, making a stirring address, while Lawrence Cummings addressed a crowd at the corner of Jackson and North streets.

Practically all of the other candidates who have been holding open air meetings were out today addressing the voters and making their final appeals this noon.

James J. Gallagher, Alderman Barrett and Charles J. Morse spoke at the Jackson Co. each setting forth his claims for preference by the voters.

John J. Daly, ex-alderman addressed several rallies this noon and was enthusiastically received.

For the school board there are several candidates who should give good service. Among the number is James C. Reilly, a prominent young lawyer, who was defeated two years ago by a malicious story that deluded the voters.

On Friday night quite a large number of republicans met at Odd Fellows hall and planned to use their efforts to promote the candidacy of James H. McKinley for mayor.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Edward Cawley, candidate for alderman, on page three, as it was crowded off the last page for which it was ordered.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medical treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause greatest distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little antacid medicine, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.

ROCCO MANUFACTURER IN LYNN DIED TODAY

LYNN, Nov. 17.—Patrick Lennox, the oldest morocco manufacturer in Lynn and a pioneer in the industry, died today, aged 55 years. Death was due to the infirmities of old age.

Mr. Lennox came to the United States from Ireland in 1845 and several years later established a leather business in Lynn which grew to be one of the largest business enterprises in the city.

Mr. Lennox is survived by seven children.

CHIEF OF ORDINANCE

Saco-Lowell shops in Dutton street and addressed a body of several hundred men. Organizer Young, the man who has built up the strongest machinists' union ever formulated in this city, was in the crowd and had passed around cards giving notice of a meeting at Associated hall this evening. The mayor prefaced his remarks with a word about the meeting at which the new lodge of machinists will be installed. The mayor called attention to the fact that it was through the efforts of Organizer Young that the distribution of such cards in the public streets was made possible. When Mr. Young first came to Lowell he found there was an ordinance forbidding the distribution of literature and he went to see the mayor about it. The mayor took the matter up with other members of the municipal council with the result that certain sections of the ordinance were stricken out and the ordinance was made to read so as to allow the distribution of literature of an instructive or educational nature.

In speaking of tonight's meeting the mayor hoped it would be his success and congratulated the machinists of Lowell on their splendid organization. He said that nearly nine hundred machinists have organized for better wages, better conditions and shorter hours, and these things, he said, he sincerely hoped they would attain. The mayor defended the present government administration and regretted that certain men seeking office were attempting to give Lowell and her citizens a black eye. There was no dearth of applause when the mayor finished speaking.

At 12:40 today Dennis J. Murphy addressed a good sized gathering at the United States Hunting Co. going over practically the same ground covered in his various other speeches. He criticized the administration of the police department, and made sweeping charges as usual.

COM. CUMMINGS

Consults With County Commission Relative to Market St. Building

Commissioner Cummings and City Solicitor Hennessy had a conference with the county commissioners at the court house in Gorham street this morning relative to the lease by the county of the Market street house. Before the recent improvements, including the installation of steel vaults, were made at the Market street building the county paid the city a rental of $2400 a year for court-room, offices, etc. and a new lease was drawn up. The commissioners asked that certain changes relative to upkeep, heat and light be made in the lease and it was for that purpose that the meeting was held this morning. It is understood that the lease is now acceptable to both parties and the commissioners will attach their signatures to it at a meeting to be held tomorrow morning. It is a 10-year lease and the $2950 is payable annually when due.

FOREIGNERS FLEE FROM MEXICO

REWARDED FINISHED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—General Huerta regards his part in the recent exchange of communications with the United States as finished. He expects to find no difficulty in consummating his plan to bring his new congress in full organization tomorrow and he is planning his military campaigns and carrying out his policies of pacification.

What further move may be taken at Washington is a question which neither the Mexicans nor the foreigners here find it easy to answer but there was noticeable today an increased expression of opinion that the United States would continue her hands-off policy. This was not a predominant belief but those who expressed it pointed out that there was an element at Washington which would be contented to see the federal and constitutionalists play their own game to the finish, the taking of Juarez by the rebel forces being cited as perhaps an encouragement of such a disposition at Washington. It was reported unofficially today that Chihuahua had been captured. The war department, however, has little information regarding military operations especially those in the north in which the rebels are said to be victorious. The situation about Tuxtram, the centre of the oil industry, is described as acute. The rebels are urging the foreigners to capture their wells and leave them as the rebels do not propose to leave an unrestricted supply of fuel oil for the railroads to enable the government to derive revenue from that source.

Exodus of Foreigners

The exodus of foreigners continued today. The trains to Vera Cruz were jammed. It was asserted at the American embassy that no new instructions had been received. Many American citizens who have reached here from smaller towns in the interior possess a deep-seated feeling that the situation has reached a most acute stage and large numbers of them have joined in the rush to Vera Cruz.

A number of business concerns here whose headquarters are abroad have received cabled instructions to send the women and children of their employees out of the federal capital, while from

Saturday Night

Saturday night was some speech making night in Lowell. Candidates for office were speechifying from city hall steps and from almost every street corner in the city. One of the speakers, not a candidate, was particularly abusive and it was generally conceded that he made votes for the men whom he abused. The big crowd of the evening was at city hall. There were several thousand people there, including a very generous sprinkling of the fair sex. They remained to hear the fast of the 57 varieties of speakers and some of them were blue with the cold when they turned away. The chamber of deputies was ordered to hold a session today for the purpose of revising the credentials of its members and it is expected that unless the United States government finds a means to bring about an alteration of the present plans the first regular meeting of that house will occur on Thursday.

Meanwhile whether the United States embassy is to remain or to be withdrawn appears to be a matter of which Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires himself is uncertain. The staff of the embassy is ready to leave at a moment's notice and little surprise would be felt here, although much alarm would be caused in case Mr. O'Shaughnessy and his establishment should take the evening train to Vera Cruz.

PRES. WILSON WILL NOT WITHDRAW AMERICAN EMBASSY IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Wilson does not regard the Mexican situation as having reached any such critical stage as to require the closing of the American embassy. Discussing reports to that effect today, he said, Charge O'Shaughnessy neither has been given his passports nor been told to come back. While details as to personal affairs are being handled, the main circumstances remain substantially the same as when the president previously expressed a favorable view of the situation. Summing up the status of affairs, the president indicated that while the personal attitude of General Huerta might be changed the circumstances on which the American government bases its conviction that Huerta's elimination is inevitable have not changed at all. The mills of the gods grind slowly, expresses the slow and steady purposes to be pursued.

The president made it plain the changes in the situation had not impaired confidence here in the ultimate solution of the problem by peaceful means. Official denial was made at the White House of reports that American mediation was contemplated and it was reiterated that no mediation of any kind had been offered to either faction. South American nations, it was stated, had been informed in the same way as European nations and have expressed in the main their desire to support an American policy. Brazil in particular is not having recognized the Huerta government previously regarded especially friendly to the American policy.

Secretary Bryan has ordered investigation of the executions at Juarez, but thus far has been unable to reconcile conflicting reports.

SECRETARY BRYAN BUSY READING MESSAGES FROM CHARGE O'SHAUGHNESSY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Secretary Bryan was at his office early today reading overnight despatches from Charge O'Shaughnessy at Mexico City. The secretary was non-committal about the situation, declining to indicate what the next move would be or how soon developments might be expected.

Reports that the American embassy would be closed and Charge O'Shaughnessy withdrawn were persistent again today but no confirmation was obtainable. High officials were reticent to discuss any phase of the report.

The forced resignation of Minister Garcia Adria, minister of the interior, who was looking upon the head of Huerta's cabinet, was regarded with deep interest.

All the ministers of foreign countries are still here and it is not anticipated that any of them will leave their posts even in case of intervention as the diplomats consider it part of their duty to continue to safeguard the interests of their respective countries.

In this connection Admiral Von Hantz, the German minister, is optimistic, saying he believes there is no reason for anxiety and that a plan is being considered by which armed intervention will surely be avoided.

PROTECT FORESTS CHRISTMAS MAIL

Commission in Forestry
Reports to Conservation Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—From one-fifth to one-third of the United States must be devoted to forests if proper stream flow and the prevention of the washing away of the soil are to be brought about in the opinion of the special commission in forestry which is to report to the fifth annual convention of the national conservation congress. This announcement was made today by the federal forest service. Forests must be protected, the committee sets forth, "not so much in the belief that already suffer from lack of moisture as in regions which lie in the path of prevailing winds and which are still abundantly supplied both with ground water and precipitation."

Under present conditions the committee sees peril to the granary of the continent.

"Where clearing of the forest in the Atlantic and Gulf coast states is a necessity," the committee warns "it should be done only under the condition that the cleared land is to be devoted to intense cultivation, as after forests crops contribute most to the moisture of the air."

The committee will advance the theory that as forests give off more moisture than water surface, the prevention of arable land being rendered impossible of cultivation lies with the retention of wooded lands. Planting of trees around cultivated fields will be recommended as adding in advancing their agricultural possibilities.

ADJ. GEN. PEARSON TALKS

OBJECTS TO POLICY OF WAR DEPARTMENT TOWARD THE NATIONAL GUARD

An interesting statement regarding military affairs has been issued by Adjutant General Pearson, chief of staff of the Massachusetts volunteer militia in which he refers to erroneous statements alleged to have been made in connection with the action of the National guard association at the annual convention in Chicago in October. The statement refers to the militia pay bill.

The issue was raised, said Mr. Pearson, when the secretary of war declined to hold further conference with the representatives of the 120,000 officers and men of the organized militia in reference to federal assistance that would amount to a small compensation for both officers and men. Apparently, says the adjutant general, the secretary of war has admitted the hopelessness of organizing the army in connection with a desired standard, and has turned his eyes to the national guard with the hope of forcing it to conform to such a standard. Mr. Pearson said among other things:

"The whole history of the trials and tribulations of the pay bill emphatically indicate that, while it has been accepted in principle, by two secretaries of war, the chief of staff and by President Taft, the hitch has always been, not because the National Guardsmen objected to fighting or leaving the country in time of war, but because the secretary or his advisers apparently have hunted up some new standard not yet attained by the army to impose upon the militia."

I believe the feeling of the delegates at Chicago was that we are perfectly willing to conform to the reasonable or unreasonably standards to which the U. S. army, itself conforms, but that we should not be expected to set the standard of organization any more than we should be expected to set the standard of training for the regular army."

PASTOR FAVORS ADVERTISING

The Rev. Frank H. Ebricht, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Whitestone, L. I., believes that advertising is as necessary in the church as in business. His views on advertising were shown in this advertisement, which appeared yesterday in the Whitestone Herald:

"Stolen, Strayed, Lost or Mistaken:

"Missing—Last Sunday, many families from church."

"Stolen—Several hours from the Lord's day by a great number of people."

"Strayed—Half a hundred lambs; went in the direction of no Sunday school."

"Mistaken—A quantity of silver coins owed to the Lord."

"Wanted—Scores of young people. When last seen were walking up 'Sabbath Breaker's Lane,' which leads to 'No Good.'"

"Lost—A lad carefully reared. Not long from home. Supposed to have gone to Hux Lane, Prodigal Town."

"Any person assisting in the discovery of the above shall in nowise lose his reward."

Sec. Lane to Hold Back
Government Mail to Help Out Santa Claus

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—In an effort to speed the flying hoofs of Santa Claus' reindeer, Secretary Lane of the interior department today issued orders that the children's patron saint be given as clear and unimpeded track as possible. To bring this about the employees of the department were ordered to refrain from forwarding government package mail to Washington or elsewhere during the ten days preceding Christmas except in emergency cases.

The importance of the order and the aid it will be to the postoffice department in handling the vast amount of package mail during the holiday rush is seen in the announcement that a vast amount of package mail always is in transit between the various offices of the department. Secretary Lane says the business of the government will not suffer by the brief let up in its transmission, while the benefits to be conferred in relieving the mails of the matter will be great. The department's letter mail will go forward as usual.

SALE OF STAMPS

Asst. Postmaster Hands
Down Decision on the Stamp Slot Machines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—When an eager person drops a nickel in a slot machine and gets four one-cent or two two-cent stamps, thereby paying a premium of one cent for the privilege of dropping the coin he cannot hold the United States government guilty of extortion." This ruling was made today by the postoffice department. A. M. Dockery, third assistant postmaster, handed down the decision. He was prompted to the action because of the flood of protests that has nearly swamped the department, all aimed at the imposition of a premium when stamps were extracted from the mechanical devices. Mr. Dockery acknowledged that the law prohibits the sale of stamps by postmasters and their employees at more than their face value but points out that the statute does not apply to outsiders.

The government has no jurisdiction over stamp-vending machines located elsewhere than on postoffice premises," he said, "and the postoffice department has no authority to interfere with the sale of stamps at more than face value in such devices."

FOREIGN DELEGATIONS

TO ATTEND THE INTERNATIONAL
ANTI-VIVISECTION AND ANIMAL PROTECTION CONGRESS

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Delegates from many foreign countries are to attend the international anti-vivisection and animal protection congress to be held here Dec. 3 to 14, it was announced today. The congress will consider the broad question of "kindness to dumb animals" and will not confine itself solely to the topic of vivisection. Among the subjects to be taken up are those dealing with reforms in slaughtering methods, the question of homes for lost and strayed animals, humane methods in destroying animal life and kindred topics.

OPIMUM SMOKING ON TRAIN

A traveler's opium pipe has been invented, says a Kansas City despatch. This is how it is made: A long rubber tube with a mouthpiece is attached to the bowl of a regulation briar pipe. The "pill" is rolled in the usual way. And when the craving comes to the unfortunate user on a train the thing is done easily and without fumes. The apparatus is taken into a compartment—the smoking room will do if it is empty—and the pill is rolled. The window is opened enough to light the pill outside the car. Then the window is closed so it rests on the stem next to the bowl and the fumes are blown away by the wind. The smoke inside the car is not of noticeable volume.

The apparatus was introduced as evidence in the North Side municipal court and helped to convict three men on a technical charge of vagrancy. The men were arrested after complaints of escaping opium fumes had been made. In their trunks the police found, besides the opium paraphernalia, racing tickets and charts, telegraphic codes, silk gowns, evening suits and silk hats. The rubber pipes had been first and the police department had ever seen and their use had to be explained by the prisoners.

THE B. & M. RATES

Schedule Filled With Inconsistencies, Says
Commissioner Prouty

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—"An increase of transportation charges which would give the Boston & Maine road an additional income of $5,000,000 the sum which officials of the road claim is needed is absolutely impracticable," according to Interstate Commerce Commissioner Prouty. In a statement published here today Mr. Prouty is quoted as saying:

"The rate schedules of the Boston & Maine are filled up with all sorts of inconsistencies. What ought to be done and what they propose to do is to apply a uniform mileage scale. It will work advances in some sections and reductions in others. The road asks to increase its class rate revenue by $500,000 to $600,000 but it should not be allowed an advance of much if anything over five per cent in such rates. The commission will permit the Boston & Maine to put into effect soon whatever class rate increases are approved."

"The Boston & Maine has argued that it should be allowed an income of $5,000,000 per annum higher than at present through increasing its transportation charges but such an increase is absolutely impracticable and the road will not be allowed anything like it."

EDUCATION NOTES

Several of Arizona's school laws are models of simplicity and effectiveness, according to officials of the U. S. bureau of education.

The result of adequate industrial education will be "peace, precision and prosperity in industry; happiness and hope in our homes," in the opinion of Secretary of Commerce Redfield.

The people of Macou county, Illinois, are planning to do honor, by a memorial volume and in other ways, to the memory of the late John Trainer, "father of the modern country school."

That the hundreds of health teaching agencies in the United States should organize into a general body for united and cooperative action is the assertion of Dr. F. B. Dresslar of the United States bureau of education.

Student insurance is a feature of German continuation schools. For an insurance fee of 13 cents per half year the students in the schools for builders, for example, are insured against all accidents that may happen to them in the school room or on the way to and from school.

When 500 girls between 14 and 18 years of age in Chicago factories were asked: "If your father had a good job, so that he could have afforded to keep you in school, would you prefer to stay in school or go to work in a factory?" 412 replied that they would still prefer to be in the factory.

JUMPED IN RIVER

Man Afire Dives to Extinguish the Flames—Woman Arrested

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Aroused from his sleep early yesterday morning by a fire which enveloped the bungalow on Bridge street, Dedham, where he was spending the night, Harry D. Dean, with his clothing ablaze made a frenzied dash a quarter of a mile to the Charles river and plunged in. He was pulled out by three automobilists and rushed to the city hospital, where it is expected he cannot live.

With Dean in the bungalow at the time was a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Sadie Howland and residence in East Boston, and who claimed to be Dean's housekeeper. She escaped, but is held by the police of the Jamaica Plain station while the Dedham and Boston officials are investigating the circumstances which surround the unusual affair. As yet, the details in the possession of the police are meagre.

Shortly before 2 o'clock, yesterday morning, Arnold Scott, accompanied by his wife, was returning to their home in Dedham, when an excited woman, apparently mad, stopped their car on Bridge street. She told them that a bungalow nearby had been destroyed by fire and that a man, with clothes ablaze, had run in the direction of the Charles river.

While she was explaining the affair and imploring Scott to go to his assistance, two men, whose names are not known, in another automobile bound for Providence, came along and were also stopped. The three men started in quest of the man.

At a point off Bridge street they found a man coming from the river and in the shallow water found Dean, suffering from his burns. The men assisted him to Scott's automobile and the latter took him to the West Roxbury police station, from which he was immediately transferred to the city hospital.

The woman who had accompanied them, was also taken to the police station in the automobile. She was placed under arrest, pending the investigation and charged with drunkenness.

The police immediately began an investigation. A feature of the case is that no alarm was sounded and the building fell a prey to the flames without anyone, apparently, knowing that anything had occurred.

The bungalow was located on Bridge street, on the line between Dedham and Boston, and only 2 1/2 miles from the center of the town.

A $10,000 SUIT

Name of Second Husband Omitted From Wife's Tombstone

MAYSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 17.—Because his name was omitted from the stone marking the grave of his wife, Joseph D. Pickett sued the wife's children for $10,000.

He lost the case in the De Kalb county circuit court here, but has appealed to the supreme court.

Pickett and Olie S. Delvee were childhood sweethearts in this neighborhood. Pickett enlisted for service in the Civil war and became a sergeant in the Seventeenth regiment.

After the war Pickett returned home and found that his old sweetheart had married Edwin L. Pierce. Pickett later married. In 1895 Pierce died. Pickett divorced his wife and later married Mrs. Pierce against the wishes of her children.

Pickett and the former Mrs. Pierce lived together 10 years and nearly four months when she died. The Pierce children took possession of all her belongings except the property left to Pickett by her will, and she was buried in the Mayville cemetery.

Then the children decided to bring the body of Pierce, her first husband, from Winflow and bury it beside her grave here. The monument which had stood on Pierce's grave also was brought here, and this epitaph was added to the inscription on it, relating to Pierce:

"Olie S. Delvee, wife of E. L. Pierce, born in Franklin county, Mass., July 24, 1851; died March 29, 1912."

Pickett thought the added inscription should have shown that he was the husband of Mrs. Pierce, and alleged he had been damaged $10,000, inasmuch as the omission of his name from the monument, standing in plain view of the general public, caused him great anguish.

The Pierce children demurred to the complaint, saying Pickett had no cause of action, and Judge Burns sustained the demurrer.

ARREST BANDITS

Were About to Rob a Home—Betrayed by Their Pal

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—As a result of an alleged conspiracy on the part of four young men to hold up and rob Orrin Clark, a wealthy farmer of Derry Road of $50,000, he is supposed to keep in the house. Inspectors Mehar and Hampden and six officers of the Manchester police spent the night in ambush opposite the Clark farm and at an early hour arrested the four, all fully armed.

The arrested men gave the names of Ralph E. Howard, 176 Main street, Haverhill; his brother, Ray A. Howard of the same address; Joseph McKinley of Amesbury, and Thomas Clark of Amesbury.

All of the youths are about 20 years old. The arrests came as the result of a confession, alleged to have been made by Bernard Fitzgerald, 31 Washington street, Haverhill, who claims to have knowledge of the original plans of the quartet.

According to the story alleged to have been told to the police by Fitzgerald the five young men hearing of the large amount of money said to be kept in the house by Orrin Clark, determined to rob the old man, who lives with his wife in a lonely spot near Derry, N. H.

Get Lay of Land

They sent to Pittsburgh for a supply of firearms, and pending its arrival made a journey last Sunday to look the farm over. They spent the day getting the lay of the land, even going to the house for a drink of water, so that they might get a view of the interior. They then determined upon last night as the night upon which to commit the robbery.

During the week, however, it is alleged Fitzgerald recruited and told the Haverhill police about the projected holding. The Manchester police were notified. At midnight last night a squad of eight policemen were sent down to the farm. When they told the reason of their presence to the aged couple, the Clarks became so worked up that they were afraid to have the policemen stay in the house. Accordingly the police were compelled to hide themselves by the roadside outside the house, although it had been their original intention to hide in the cellar of the house and catch the bandits in the act.

Guns, Clubs and Knives

Promptly on scheduled time four figures were made out in the road in front of the house, and the police, fearing they might escape in the darkness, pounced upon them. They were found to be the young men for whom they were waiting, and were taken to Manchester. At Manchester they were searched and a varied assortment of revolvers, clubs and knives were found upon them.

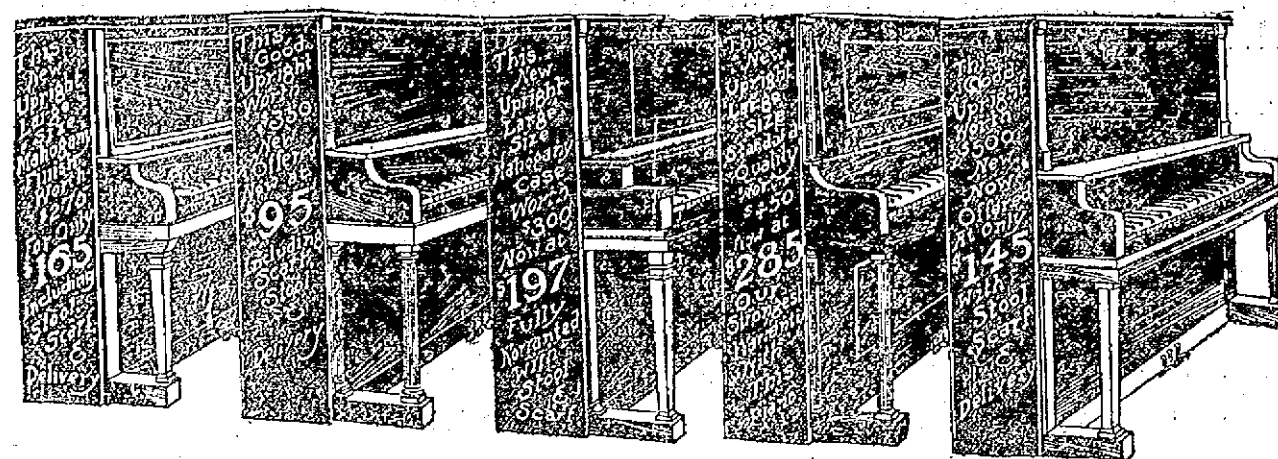

As the police, owing to their inability to carry out their plans and hide in the house, did not succeed in arresting the young men in the act of robbing the house, they are held on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

DOUBLE OILS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The novel plan of increasing imports of American cottonseed oil into northern Africa by introducing modern oil-pressing machinery and encouraging the natives to produce better grades of oil is being promoted by Commercial Agent Fred W. Thompson in a monograph entitled "Double Oils in the Mediterranean District," just issued by the Bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce. The natives will sell the high-grade olive oil abroad at excellent prices and then report cheaper oils for their own use.

The present crisis in the vegetable oil industry in Marseille is traced at some length in the monograph. For years the Mediterranean coast has been the seat of the competition of the natives where modern machinery and methods are in use. Attention is also given to the oil-trade conditions in Morocco, Algeria and Tunis.

Copies of the monograph can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., at a cost of 5 cents.

Bring Back Its Gloss, Lustre, Charm and Get Rid of Dandruff

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair, soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance: freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp.

Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

Mrs. Arnett was impetuous. She had had one husband, and he had had two wives. There is no report of their having been unhappy in their former matrimonial alliances. Perhaps this was in part responsible for their mutual trustfulness. At any rate, the bridegroom was willing to take his veiled cover, and await the revelation of her multiplicity until after the knot should be securely tied making them man and wife.

The wedding is the culmination of a courtship begun in Cuba and carried on under remarkable circumstances. The first time that the physician heard the voice of Mrs. Arnett was over the long-distance telephone, he having been introduced to her through a matrimonial bureau.

Before speaking to her he had not exchanged a word with any woman, in pursuance of a vow made upon the death of his second wife, in 1912. The year was up last July, whereupon he published a memorial to his lamented wife and sought a worthy successor to her.

Mrs. Arnett was responsible for the statement that the suggestion that she be not seen until after the marriage did not come from her but from Dr. Hartley. She asserted that she did not even know what his reasons were for making such a strange request. She was perfectly willing, simply, however, and even advised all pretty girls to pursue the same course. "As long as the brides are all they should be morally and physically," she is reported to have said, "it would be a good thing if their future husbands had not been there beforehand."

In the future," she remarked complacently, "Dr. Hartley would never be able to tell her that he had married her for her looks. If she were passably fair to look upon he would be satisfied; if she were more than that he would be the more agreeably surprised."

Two weddings will be arranged, one at the parsonage and the other in the church. Dr. Hartley was known in England under the name of Helleyer, and in order to insure everything being legal he will be married under both names. During both ceremonies Mrs. Arnett agreed to wear a veil, no flimsy breath of tulle, which only softens the charms that it is supposed to conceal, but a veil that should actually mask the face. The bridegroom was under honor not to see until the fatal knot had been spoken. That bound them together as man and wife. According to his statement, he never even saw a picture of the woman he asked to marry him, had talked with no one about her appearance and was prepared to be taken entirely by surprise when his eyes rested upon her, his lawful, wedded wife.

HIGHLAND METHODIST

Rev. William McLean Preached on the Tenth Commandment—Rev. George B. Dean to Speak Sunday Night

"The Tenth Commandment" was the subject of Rev. William H. McLean at the Highland Methodist church last night. It was announced that Rev. George B. Dean, formerly of St. Paul's church, will speak at the service next Sunday night.

Mr. McLean said that the tenth commandment is the most important of all commandments, because if it is obeyed all others will be obeyed. "Thou shalt not covet" is a commandment of the violation of all the other commandments. It is the cause of the violation of all the other commandments, and causes us to bear false witness. On the statute books you do not find any law relating to covetousness because it is a commandment of the heart.

"Original sin arose from covetousness. In this there is every possibility relative to evil. The unholy desire of the heart initiates the sin. About gold there is a great lure for men, and the frenzied desire for the shining metal is responsible for much evil. The lure of gold is the lure of death. What does it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?"

COLORED PEOPLE

Result of Investigation of Segregation in the Federal Departments

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today made public the report of a special agent sent to Washington to investigate the segregation of white and colored employees in government departments. The investigation was made as the result of many complaints and inquiries. The association has twenty branches throughout the country. Woodfield Storey of Boston is president. Oswald G. Villard of New York is chairman of the board of directors, which includes, among others, Miss Jane Addams and Miss Lillian D. Wald.

"The effect of segregation," says the report, "is startling. Competition has been eliminated. Those segregated are regarded almost as lepers and get what no one else wants. Segregation in work has been effected so far without official orders. Generally the excuse is a readjustment of work to increase efficiency."

"Taking up individual departments, the report says:

"In the miscellaneous and examining division of the bureau of engraving and printing, workers have been paired according to race. In the dead letter office of the post office department colored employees have been segregated back of a row of lockers in a corner of the room. In fact, in this department, segregation practically amounts to elimination. In the treasury building colored clerks have not yet been segregated, but it seems to be understood that as many as possible are to be segregated in the registry division."

"In the office of the auditor for the post office segregation seems to have been most skillfully worked out. In one room colored men operate what is known as the 'gang punch' and in another room, the force working at the 'assembling machines' is entirely colored."

"In the bureau of engraving and printing, the lunch room assigned to the colored women is unsanitary. In the post office department there is no lunch room at all for colored help. In the office of the auditor for the post office, the colored women were taken from light airy rooms and placed in an unpleasant alcove. In the dead letter office, where the colored workers have been grouped back of a row of lockers, the part of the room chosen is least desirable.

"As far as could be ascertained, only one official has given the colored people an opportunity to express their opinion of the policy of segregation. Arrangements for segregation had been made in one of the divisions of the pension bureau, but when the chief of the division learned that the colored employees were opposed to separation, he gave them an opportunity to vote on the matter. They were unanimous in their opposition."

MACHINE GUN TEST

Transferred From Springfield to Fort Sill, Okla., by Order of the War Department

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 17.—The test of rapid-fire machine guns which has been pursued at the United States armory since Sept. 15, has been transferred from this city to Ft. Sill, Okla., by order of the war department, and all of the officers who were assigned as members of the test board have been ordered to report at that place and remain until the tests are completed.

The order comes as the result of the conclusion of all of the tests scheduled to be made at the local armory and the further tests will be in the nature of field work; in other words, to place the guns in the hands of troops for actual field demonstration.

All of the guns which are under test by the army officers are of the light variety, which are light enough to be "jacked" by troops, or carried in whole or part by members of the field artillery. The test was made as the result of an invitation by the war department to private makers of machine guns to enter an open test in which the types of machine guns now manufactured by the government also would be entered. The object was to ascertain if any privately manufactured guns excelled the government product.

The test which has been going on in the local armory since Sept. 15, has been in the nature of trials of the temper of the steel, resistance, friction and other qualities in the actual manufacture of the guns. About a half dozen manufacturers, representing this and European countries, responded to the invitation and more than a dozen types of guns were tested.

The tests at Ft. Sill will be in the hands of the field artillery. Troops will be given each type of gun in turn and certain field tests will be gone through, such as setting up, packing, carrying and firing under all conditions. The weight and convenience in carrying the guns also will be considered in addition to the force and distance of shots discharged.

JUVENILE WAVE OF CRIME

Two More Shot Yesterday—Four Dead, Three Seriously Injured, One Nearly Hanged

JUVENILE TRAGEDIES OF ONE WEEK

Nov. 11.—James Holmes, Bristol, R. L., 9, stabbed; dying.

Nov. 13.—Mary Joyce, South Boston, 12, shot to death. Alphonse Carilli, East Boston, 21, arrested for threats with revolver. Bertha St. Pierre, Fall River, 7, killed by blow with stick. Frank Kaganakowicz, New York, 4, almost hanged.

Nov. 15.—Aimee Quinette, Danvers, 17, accidentally shot. Charles Southwick, Peabody, 3, accidentally shot and killed.

Nov. 16.—Amos Boardman, Bridgewater, 8, accidentally shot; dying. Leroy Robinson, Dragston, N. J., 18, shot to death.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Four children, ranging in age from 3 to 18, are dead, slain by other children; one youth of 15 is under arrest charged with threatening another with a revolver; three children are dangerously ill from gunshot, or stab wounds inflicted by companions, and one lad of 4 narrowly escaped being hanged by boyish playmates.

Such is the gruesome toll of one of the saddest weeks for many years—a week during which one childish crime or fatal accident followed upon the heels of another with almost the regularity of an epidemic.

Of the nine tragedies recorded, four of them fatal, New England was the scene of all but two, and Greater Boston numbered four of the seven. Like the epidemic of suicide that invariably follows a particularly notorious voluntary death, the shootings and the stabblings, with but one exception, followed in the wake of 12-year-old Mary

Joyce's death in South Boston.

The latest addition to the list of dead or dying came yesterday when a boy of 3 was shot through the abdomen by his 13-year-old playmate, and a youth of 18 instantly killed by a discharge of birdshot fired directly into his face by another boy of 13.

In Bridgewater, Amos Boardman was playing with Ernest Davis as the latter cleaned a .32-caliber revolver. It was the usual case of "didn't know it was loaded." The victim may die.

Dr. W. S. Whitcomb, called to attend the lad, ordered his removal to the Brockton hospital, where the surgeons found that the bullet had made 17 punctures in the intestines, a record for the hospital.

In Milville, N. J., farthest removed as yet from the scene of the first recorded fatal shooting of a child, Leroy Robinson of Dragston, was instantly killed by 13-year-old Teddy Laws.

Robinson and a companion were driving near Dinding creek when Laws

"THE HOLY CITY"

Caul's Beautiful Cantata Given at Worthen Street Baptist Church

Rev. Francis Marston, D. D., secretary of the Massachusetts Bible society, preached, Sunday morning, at the Worthen Street Baptist church and in the evening Alfred Caul's cantata, "The Holy City," was sung by an augmented choir of a dozen voices, in connection with the regular services. The members of the choir were Miss Ella Thompson, Mrs. Gurnell Horne and Mrs. N. J. Marcotte, sopranos; Mrs. F. A. Leach, Miss Marion MacKnight and Miss Ida Woodley, altos; E. R. Wirt, John Brown and Carl Mason, tenors; G. S. Drew, Donald Hanson and Robert S. Benson, bass.

Miss Thompson, Mrs. Leach, Mr. Wirt and Mr. Drew. "Almost a Christian" was the subject of Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost's sermon. He showed how those of the past had started to live the right life and had reached within sight of the coveted goal and then fell by the wayside. He asked how many people in the present day are in the very dangerous position of "almost being a Christian." "This is a very dangerous position to find yourself in," said the speaker. "Seek out what is righteous and best and do your part in landing beyond the goal."

First Baptist Church.

"Do not forgetful to entertain strangers, for some thereby have entertained angels unawares." This verse, from the 13th chapter of Hebrews was the starting point of Rev. H. S. Pinkham's sermon on "Hospitality" at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. Mr. Pinkham wants his church to be known as "the church with the cordial welcome." He said hospitality is the spirit of the average church today. There may be some foundation for criticisms that have been made upon churches as cold and unwelcoming, but in general he did not believe such is true in even a small proportion of the houses of worship.

"Opportunity and How Men Meet Them" is the general title of a series of evening sermons, the first one of which was preached in the evening on "The Man Who Misses His Opportunity." The text was I. Kings, 20:10—"And as thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone." The preacher spoke of the folly of wasting precious time when by using even the spare moments one may become educated in history, literature and science. Most important of all, he said, was the study of the Bible, the book that builds character. It is the duty of every man, he said, carefully to study this great book. The one great need of the church today is walking with God in prayer, and we must not be so busy as to neglect this important devotion. The prayer of request, of communion and of intercession is the duty and privilege of every one of God's children.

MANCHESTER DEFEATED

LOWELL Y. M. C. A. SWIMMERS WIN CLOSE SWIMMING MEET FROM QUEEN CITY RIVALS

In a dual swimming meet which resulted in the closest event of its kind yet engaged in by the local Y. M. C. A. swimmers the locals brought home the bacon over Manchester Y. M. C. A. last Saturday night at the gym by the score of 42 to 35. Kennedy, of Manchester, was the individual star of the meet.

Captain Jackson Palmer, the local swimming crack, was in no condition to don his swimming regalia on account of an old injury to his knee received on the gridiron while in college, but responded to his team's cry for help when Kennedy started away with all the first places in the various events. Palmer was greatly instrumental in the victory of his team over Kennedy.

The Manchester crack won no less than four firsts for his team. He was equally at home in either the twenty yard event or for the furlough although Welsh and Gallagher of the locals went out after him in the latter event.

In the fifty yard affair, Palmer seemed to be practically tied with Kennedy but the judges awarded first place to the visitor. He also showed great form in the hundred yard and fifty yard sprints.

100 yards—Won by Kennedy, Manchester; Welch, Lowell, second; Palmer, Lowell, third. Time 1m. 11-1/2s.

250 yards—Won by Kennedy, Manchester; Welch, Lowell, second; Gallagher, Lowell, third. Time, 3m. 35s.

50 yards—Won by Kennedy, Manchester; Wrenn, Lowell, second; Harris, Lowell, third. Time, 29-3/8s.

20 yard swim under water—Won by Wrenn, Lowell; Bryant, Manchester, second; Pratt, Manchester, third. Time, 11-2/5s.

Diving for four—Won by Parton, Lowell; Bryant, Manchester, second; Kennedy, Manchester, third.

Diving for distance—Won by Fawcett, Lowell; Pratt, Manchester, second; Wrenn, Lowell, third.

15 yard swim on back—Won by Wrenn, Lowell; Bryant, Manchester, second; Palmer, Lowell, third. Time 16-3/8s.

100 yard relay race—Won by Lowell Y. M. C. A. Time, 2m. 5-3/8s.

Y. M. C. A. BRICK CONTEST

Since Nov. 5, the members of the Y. M. C. A. have been collecting bricks for the "brick" contest.

a social success. He questioned if the attitude of men and women the same toward the church today as it was a century ago. How many are willing to undergo social ostracism, or any discomfort because they are members or attendants at the Grace Universalist church? He said that the longer he is connected with church work the more seriously he feels that it is one of the most vital powers in the life of the whole world; and that the life of this city would be on a far lower level had it not been for the spiritual power and leadership of the Christian church. In closing, he asked the people of the Grace church to take a new hold on life and as one act of consecration he asked them to wipe out a debt that was incurred by installing a new heating plant at an expense of several hundred dollars.

Rev. Charles Conklin spoke briefly as follows:

"I am especially glad of the fact that in your celebration you are in the midst of prosperity, with a future of great promise before you. You have come from smaller to larger things, from limited environment to a more generous field of occupation. You have kept together in the same spirit of devotion and self-sacrifice which characterized you in the beginning. The old spirit which inspired and organized this Universalist church in Lowell, now up and found expression in this splendid house of worship, almost cleared of debt. You have shown the world that Universalists can sacrifice—that they can show zeal, faith and devotion. They are people of the world, and not the Christian church as a whole is becoming decadent, that religion is becoming less and less a vital force in the community. I want to say to you that religion itself was never so potent a force in the life of man as it is today. When men declare otherwise, it is because religion has failed in fact, and not in theory, or rather, because they have failed religion, and not because religion has failed them or the world. Mankind is incurably religious."

"Your fathers stood for a better, larger and more adequate view of love. There were good things in the old theology, but there were better things ready to dawn, and our fathers caught the new dawn. They gave the world a better and truer and more human idea of Jesus Christ. The world looked upon Jesus as some mysterious, supernatural, unhuman being, occupying some mysterious place between man and God. Universalism said, Jesus Christ is our elder brother, and what he has been in every way, we are to be. 'Certainly, our fathers gave to the world a larger idea of the future, a more satisfactory and comforting view of the great hereafter.'"

The Evening Service. Congratulations were offered to the members and pastor of the Grace church last night by ministers from other churches within and without this city. Among clergymen representing local churches were Rev. Chas. T. Billings and Rev. Caleb E. Fisher and both spoke interestingly on the Universalist churches of this city.

Rev. Hanson A. Greene, D. D., a former pastor of the Grace church spoke on "The Past of Universalism." He said in part:

"Universalism has proven one of the most far-reaching and spiritually uplifting movements of comparatively modern times. I do not claim that it equals in its numerical strength certain of the evangelistic movements. It has never adopted the methods of the evangelical churches. It has never sought to stir peculiarly the emotions. Its strength has never been computed by its numerical strength. It never asked the people to fear God. It never pictured God as a dreadful being. It has been a sort of protest against a certain theology, against dogma, that it believes to be wrong. It has made an appeal to the mind and understanding. It has never made a great deal of noise, it has never been drunk with its own spirit, it has never believed that this world is a lost world. It has a sublime faith in God and the ultimate issue of life. As a leavening and transforming influence it has achieved a great work. But it has not confined itself to certain forms of hope and belief."

"One reason lies in the fact of our intense individualism. And that is a reason also that our churches have not multiplied more rapidly. We have been able to stand centralized authority; we have raised the banner of independence, and have followed it, while we have not followed some other banners. And this has been a mistake to an extent. It has cost us an enormous price. Those churches that have recognized some form of central authority have grown and are doing great work. Other churches have been more easily satisfied with the signs of outside power than have we. Our paucity of numbers can be accounted for in only one way, and that is due to the fact that we have not recognized that central authority. We have been so busy with our independence that we would be better satisfied with our small numbers and be independent than to have a glorious number of followers and recognize an authority."

Rev. Vincent Tomlinson, D. D., of Worcester, was introduced and spoke on "Universalism of the Present." He said in part:

"We are proud of what the Universalist church has done, but we must now allow it to rest on its laurels. If we can make this church indispensable to the community then we can make it the greatest force for right. That is the aim today, to make Universalism something which shall appeal to the very best of heart as well as of mind. Somebody has said that the great point of view changes every 30 years. That means that the point of view regarding educational systems, politics and religious matters changes within that period of time."

"That are the things upon which the minds of men? We are living in a time when the searchlight is being shined at everything. Men and things must live on their merits. Efficiency and conservation are the watchwords of this age. And one of the tests which is being applied to all things is whether or not the things we represent have a living message."

Rev. Clarence R. Skinner closed the evening service with brief remarks on "Universalism of the Future."

Children are sliding down hill. The orange "tricks" under the line of Miss "tricks" have a well-populated, peppy yard and modern hen houses that stand as a rebuke to those who call the association a hen yard. A purple banner with a good looking machine in front is the possession of the purple team, which is captained by Mrs. F. E. Mann. Wednesday at eight o'clock is designated to produce the jolliest fun of the fall when all the teams meet to celebrate their victories. Feathers in keeping with the affair are being planned and a very hilarious time is assured. Everyone who has filled a "brick" is eligible if he or she comes wearing the brick tag which shows the team that has been worked for.

JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

MANCHESTER MAN WHO HURLED HIMSELF FROM WINDOW GOT UP AND JUMPED INTO RIVER

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—While in a fit of insanity Horridas Fournier, 42 years old, a carpenter, residing at 154 McGregor street, threw himself into the "eddy" of the Merrimack river yesterday. The current immediately seized him and the man was drowned before the eyes of his son and a crowd of several hundred who had followed him.

He had previously been caught in the act of jumping from his bedroom window by his son, who grabbed him by the suspenders. The son held him dangling outside until the suspenders broke and the crazed man landed in a net of telephone wires below.

The son and a passing policeman then

Lowell high does not look like a winner over Haverhill high next Friday. Haverhill hasn't been defeated this fall and is looked upon as the only opponent of Waltham high for the state championship. Haverhill is not a very heavy team but is fast, its back field in particular being like chain lightning.

Lawrence high will not play Haverhill this season so that the only way that the game can be compared is by the game with Lowell. This at best is a poor way to size up a team's strength or weakness. Nashua high held Manchester to a no score tie. Lowell beat Nashua 25 to 0 and then Manchester turns about and administered a 15 to 0 defeat to Lowell. That is as far as football comparisons go.

The schedule seemed to be Manchester vs. Lowell Saturday in all branches of sport. The two high school teams met, the Buntings played the Light Blues of Manchester and the swimming teams of the Y. M. C. A. met in the Lowell tank. Lowell pulled one victory, the swimming meet.

Charlie Brickley would not be denied his drop kick Saturday and nearly dropped another one over from the 35 yard line. If Brickley had only had a trifle more direction to his boot he would have accomplished a wonderful feat.

A white hope championship contest is about what will take place at the Boston club tonight when Sam Langford and Gunboat exchange wallops. Langford says that he cannot be knocked out by Smith and vice versa.

A glorious welcome is planned for the reception of the Arlington high cross country team which won the championship of the schoolboy teams that gathered in Ithaca for the meet held last Saturday for interscholastic only. The boys will be fêted to their heart's content.

Oh, you football depester! The rest of them are shaking their heads today the same as we are for the result of Saturday's two big games was certainly an awful shock to the nervous system. Dartmouth to be beaten 35 to 10 by the Indians and Yale tying up Princeton 3 to 3 is something unprecedented in gridiron history.

If Dartmouth had won the Carlisle game her stock would have boomed high for the championship. If Yale defeats or even ties Harvard, Dartmouth will rank in the front row. Penn and the Indians played a 7 to 1 tie, Dartmouth's offensive machine scores 33 points on Penn's heavier outfit and then the Indians turn around and pass out Saturday's lacing. Can you beat it?

It was a cinch that Harvard would defeat Brown but the score was rather larger than was expected. The Providence boys were all in and played instess football against the Crimson. The subs scored 20 points to the regulars' 17 so the weakness of Brown was plainly apparent.

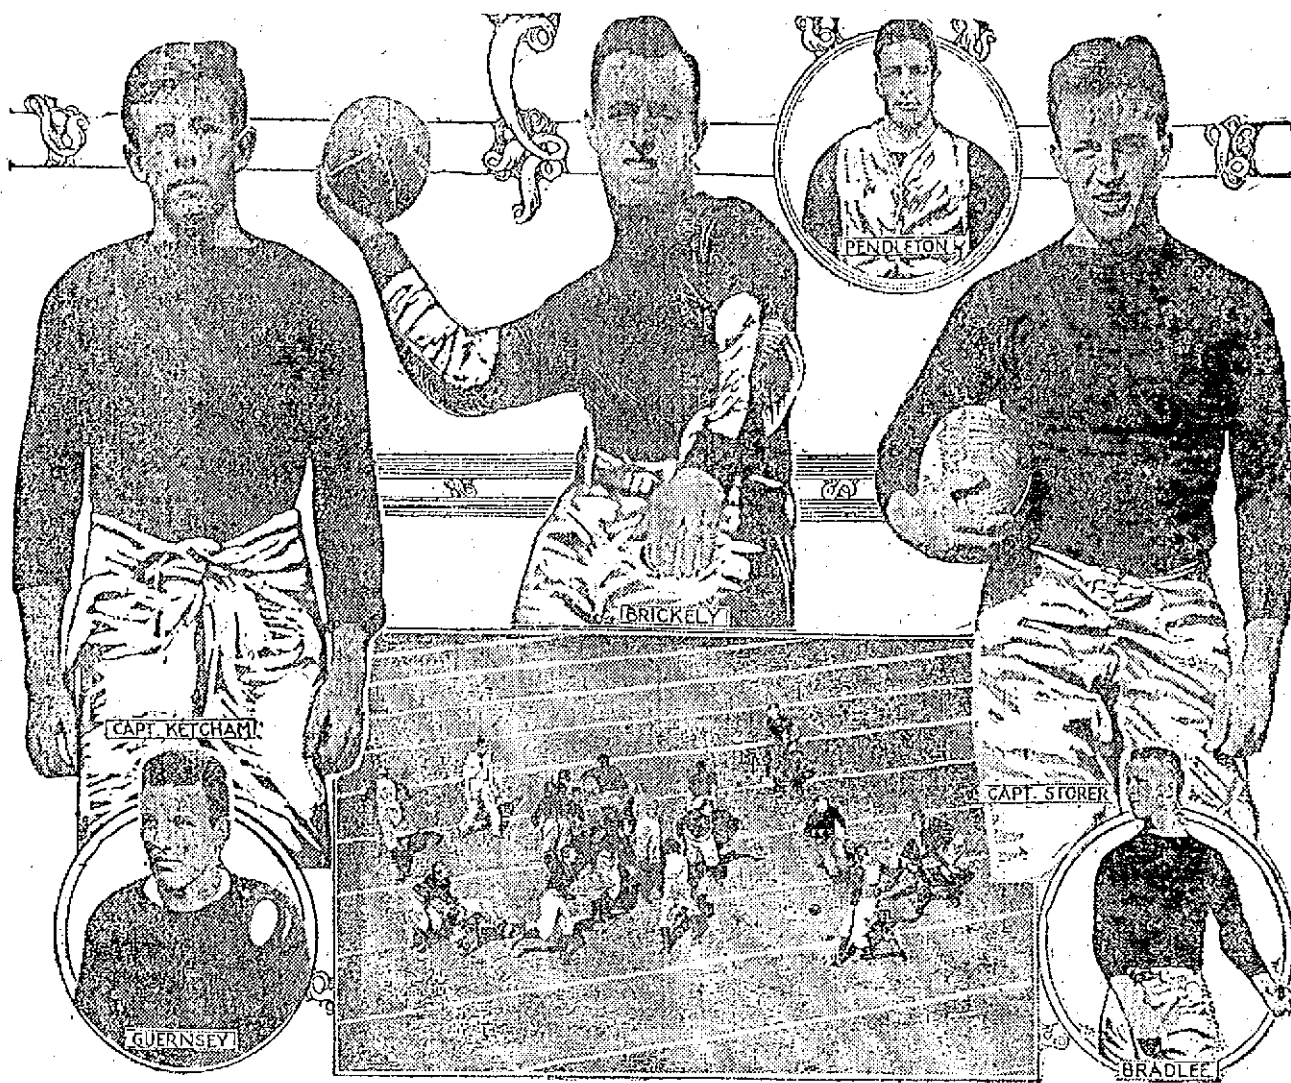

Ernest Nelson, the stocky center of the Excelsior Soccer team, lived up to his promise Saturday and sure enough gave a correct imitation of a "come-back." Nelson was all over the field and his work around the Wampanoag goal was excellent. He shot in three of his team's six goals and each one was a difficult performance.

They are now talking about a Harvard-Dartmouth game once more. Mayor Fitz of Boston is very desirous of bringing the two teams together again and has made rather a broad statement as to Harvard's attitude in the matter.

Dubamel, the star full back of the Lawrence high eleven last season, is playing a whirlwind game for the Dartmouth Freshmen. Dubamel has the makings of a varsity back and Coach Cavanaugh will make a good man out of him before he leaves the Haverhill institution.

The friends of Charlie Carter will be pleased to know that he has "made" the football team at Mercersburg academy. Charles is laid up just now with an injury received in a recent game. He is looked upon as one of the best ends that has entered the school for a long time.

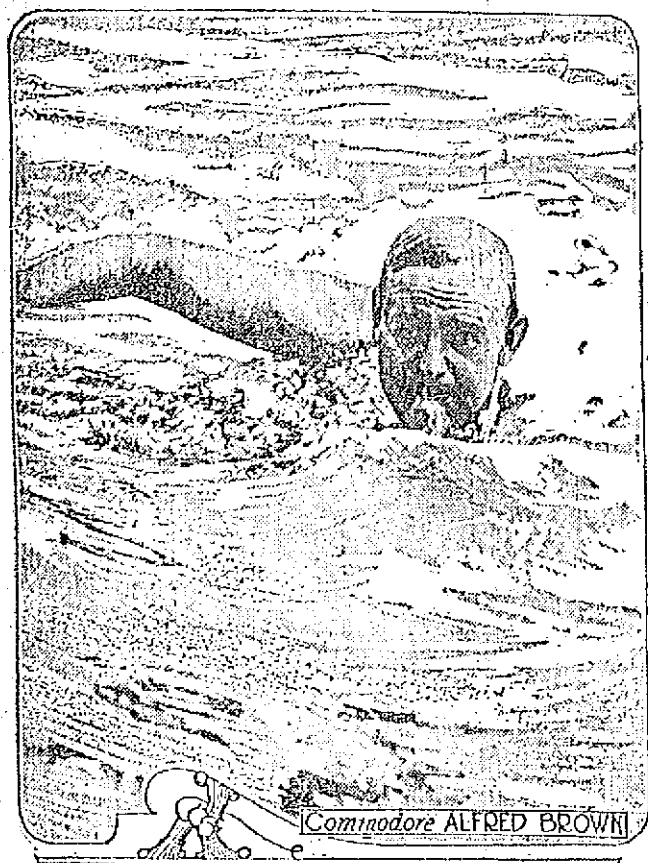

PROMINENT PLAYERS OF THE YALE HARVARD FOOTBALL TEAMS WHICH WILL BATTLE ON NOVEMBER 22ND

The Yale-Harvard football game occurs Nov. 22 at Cambridge. The Crimson team is the favorite owing to the superior showing it has made in the big games, and Captain Storer believes his husky athletes will defeat the Elis by not less than fifteen points. Brickley, the great Harvard goal kicker; Bradley, the able line tearer, and Eddie Mahan, in the back field, are calculated to lead the attack on the New Haven eleven. Captain Ketcham, Guernsey and the sturdy Pendleton are the trio that the Yale backers depend on to retrieve the early season defeats. The scene in the accompanying group cut shows a play in the Harvard-Yale game of a year ago at New Haven.

Commodore Alfred Brown of College Point, N. Y., the celebrated life saver and long distance swimmer, will attempt to swim through the Panama canal, from ocean to ocean, a distance of almost thirty miles.

INTERNATIONAL REGATTA

Has Taken Precedence Over All Other Sporting Events Among English Sportsmen

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Although close to twelve months must elapse before the challenging and defending yachts meet in the races which will decide possession of the America's cup, the international regatta has already taken precedence over all other sporting events among English sportsmen. It is apparent that the polo and tennis invasions of the states in 1914 will be considered secondary to Sir Thomas Lipton's efforts to regain the famous cup which stands for supremacy in ocean sailing competition. Already the chances of the challenger, just beginning to take form, are being weighed and discussed by yachtsmen, and the man in the street is beginning to test his tongue on nautical terms.

is to the effect that the edge is with the defending nation. Although hopeful, it is pointed out by English yachting authorities that Sir Thomas, in the role of challenger, will be handicapped by conditions which do not need to be considered by the defending yachtsmen. The question of type and towing boom large in English yachting circles, and much space is being devoted to a discussion of these points. A prominent authority recently expressed the following views on these subjects:

"Next year, notwithstanding anything that may be said to the contrary, we consider the contest will proceed in the same groove in which it has run since 1894, that is to say, it will be between extreme vessels.

"In these circumstances, Sir Thomas Lipton cannot fail to find himself at a great disadvantage. He must build a very light vessel and tune her up in British waters, he must then unrig her and lose a lot of valuable time sailing her across the Atlantic under a jury rig.

"In America she will have to be re-rigged and tuned up again in time for the first match on September 10, 1914, when the great contest will take place.

"With so many obstacles in his way, it is fair to hope his opponents will give him credit for his sportsmanship, and make it as easy for him as possible to bring his new Shamrock to the starting line in good trim. They might well assist him by placing no restrictions upon towing the yacht when the weather makes it difficult for her to sail during her ocean passage. We believe the cup will be defended by a yacht of her own waterline length, and it is satisfactory to learn that the members of the New York Yacht club, who are connected with the defense of the trophy, are the leading yachtsmen of America. So far, therefore as the actual race and the measurement rules and the sailing rules are concerned, there can be no cause for complaint, for the match will be a fair one. The disadvantages to which a challenger is subjected—many of which are insuperable in modern times so long as the present conditions attached to the cup by the New York club prevail—are so numerous that every yachtsman knows that Sir Thomas Lipton has entered upon a herculean task."

LOST AT SOCCER

Buntings Beaten by the Light Blues in Fast Game at Manchester

The Light Blues, the team which represents Manchester in the Lowell Lawrence and vicinity soccer league, defeated the Bunting team Saturday in a strenuous contest on the grounds of the former. The final score of the game was 5 to 2.

The local team made two tallies before their opponents waked up and got into the game. When once started on its way toward victory the Light Blues are known throughout soccer circles to be the hardest aggregation in the league to stop. In the second period the Lowell players were swept off their feet. The summary and lineup:

| LIGHT BLUES | BUNTING |

| J. Melkie, lb | rb, J. Atherton |

former years. The veteran is loath to admit that the younger generation is capable of developing either line or backfield stars who outrank in football ability such stars as Hefflinger, Moffat, Brooken, Poe, Ames, Corwin, Lamm, McInnes and Hare.

Much material for use in this annual controversy between the players of today and yesterday has been furnished by Parke Davis, who delights to delve into ancient football records and emerge with all sorts of interesting data which well together the past and present in gridiron history. One of his latest efforts in this direction is the compiling of a list of full length field runs. It so happens that a Yale player first achieved this spectacular feat, and to add joy to the occasion it was again a Harvard eleven, R. W. Watson, captain of the Yale team of 1890, was the full leader in that he was the first Yale player to score a touchdown against Harvard. The Crimson had been previously defeated by Yale, but always by field goals, and Watson was the pioneer of a long line of Yale players who have carried the ball across the Harvard goal line. Davis tells the tale as follows:

"A search through the accounts of the games from 1874 to 1881, find only a single instance of a full-length run from kick-off to touchdown. Harvard was playing Yale at Boston, November 20, 1880. A hard, gruelling battle was drawing to a close, without a score by either eleven. Just as the last five minutes began, Walter Can kicked a goal from the field for Yale. The teams quickly lined up for a kick-off, and Cutts, of Harvard, sent a long swirling kick to Yale's twenty-yard line, where it was caught by R. W. Watson, captain of Yale. With the catch of the ball Watson leaped into flight, and sped straight up the center of the field. The Harvard men did not mass upon him in that primitive day, as would now occur, but met him with a scattered formation. Through this broken field Watson raced and dodged, glancing off tackle after tackle, and cruised the line, scoring the first touchdown ever scored against Harvard by Yale."

The rifle teams representing the various universities in the Intercollegiate Rifle League are to be reclassified this winter. The United States was department and the National Rifle association are responsible for the new classification for competing teams in the gallery shooting championship of the United States. Formerly there were two divisions, designated as the eastern league and the western league, but the plan has been changed so that no classification will be according to the record of efficiency. There still remain two divisions, of which one will be known as class A and the other as class B. The standing of the different college teams at the present time under the new ruling is based on the record made in the Intercollegiate league matches of 1912. Class A is to consist of the twelve colleges whose averages were the highest in those matches, and Class B is to consist of the rest of the teams in the competition.

WOLGAST HOLDS RECORD
At Wolgast—the young man with barkroll and jim attachment—both being full grown and well developed. For the benefit of strangers let it be explained that Wolgast is a savage little boxer who whipped every 133-pounder of his day. He won, honorably defended and finally lost the world's light-weight championship. Incidentally Ad earned a fortune of over $25,000, saved the greater part of it, and suffered a string of misfortunes, as starting a line of accidents and ailments as ever followed a man of the ring.

A detailed list of Ad's mourning periods—we may have overlooked a few minor items in the list as follows: 1926—Left car "unhollowed" into a bow-tie.
1927—Right ear scrambled to match 1925—Bones in both hands cracked and knocked out of joint.
1928—Bridge of nose caved in. Surgical operation necessary.

At the Copley-Plaza Hotel, in the grand ball room on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, will be held an electric automobile sale, under the auspices of the Electric Motor car club of Boston.

It is unique, inasmuch as the cars exhibited, about 40 in number and for passengers only, are operated by electricity. No expense has been spared by the club to make the exhibit one of beauty and refinement. All references to the purchase of cars will be invited and visitors will thereby be free to inspect the machines without being embarrassed by salesmen.

Many of the vehicles on exhibition are marvels of luxury and comfort, and it is believed that many present or prospective owners of automobiles in Lowell and vicinity, like those of Boston and its suburbs, will enjoy the opportunity of inspecting these machines. An admission fee is charged, but the local electric lighting company has secured a limited number of tickets which it will furnish to any who make application at its office. A representative of this company will be in attendance on Tuesday to assist in the accommodation of Lowell people.

The comfort and pleasure of having a clean, light, airy, sanitary office for your patrons, as well as yourself, makes work easy in the new Sun building.

FIELDING FASTER

In the American League in 1913 Than in 1912—

876 Double Plays

That the fielding in the American league was faster in 1913 than it was in 1912 is evidenced by the fact that last season the clubs of the junior organization made sixty-four more double plays than they did during the preceding campaign, the figures for the two years being, respectively, 875 and 812.

The Cleveland Naps again carried off the honors in manufacturing two-plays retirements, they being credited with 125 dual slaughters as against 125 in 1912. The Browns contributed 127 double plays, the Nationals 117, the White Elephants 111, the Tigers 110, the White Sox 105, the Yankees 95 and the Red Sox 79. The team that showed the greatest increase in double plays over the previous season was Washington, Griffith's Climbers producing 31 more double demises in 1913 than they did in 1912.

The Nationals equalled an American league record by doubling up the Highlanders five times on September 25. Joe Boelling being on the rubber for the District of Columbia team. Twice the Griffiths made four double plays behind Walter Johnson, the shut-out and strike-out king of 1913, who received a Chalmers car for being the player most valuable to his team in the American league. The dates they did this were June 10 and July 13, the Naps played against being Detroit and Cleveland, and on three other occasions the Naps rapped into over-kill of dual murders, the teams that assassinated them being St. Louis, on July 2, and New York, on July 18 and 25.

The American leaguer of 1913 who took part in the greatest number of double plays was Arnold Gaudin, Washington's first baseman. He cut into 85, thus equalling the mark made by Jack McInnis, the 1912 leader. McInnis forced his way into 85 dual slaughters last season, Johnson of Cleveland was in 80; Weaver of Chicago in 73; Chase of Chicago in 70; Pratt of St. Louis in 66; Bush of Detroit in 63; Barry of Philadelphia in 62; Collins of Philadelphia in 59; Chapman of Cleveland in 53; Lajoie of Cleveland in 52; Engle of Boston in 54 and Gainer of Detroit in 55.

The players who took the initiative offest in double plays were Bush of Detroit and Chapman of Cleveland. Each shortstop started 39. Eddie Collins of the White Elephants made the first move in 23 and Jack Barry, another of Mack's Mastodons, inaugurated 25.

Two unassisted double plays were made by outfielders, the men who turned this seldom trick being Graney of Cleveland against St. Louis on June 1 and Oldling of Philadelphia against Cleveland on September 16.

The fastest infielding team of 1913 in the American league, positions on it being won by the men who participated in the greatest number of double plays, would have Eddie Collins and Jack Schalk as its battery. "Chief" Gaudin, Benji Pratt, Frank Baker and George Weaver in the infield, and "Birdie" Cree, Bert Shotton and either Harry Hooper or Joe Jackson in the outfield. The figures below show the number of double plays they started and helped in:

Schalk, c. Chicago 12 12 24

MANCHESTER THE VICTOR

CAHILL

LOWELL HIGHS SLASHING ENDS

Defeats Lowell in Gridiron Tussle in New Hampshire City—Brunelle, Roane and Cahill the Stars

Manchester high upset the football dope Saturday afternoon and walloped Lowell high to the tune of 15 to 0 in the fastest game seen on the Manchester gridiron this year. The local team was the favorite before the start of the contest.

The New Hampshire team deserved the victory without the shadow of a doubt. They were faster in every phase of the term and played better football at all stages of the game.

The Manchester-Lowell high school game was sandwiched in between the halves of the St. Anselm-Barnmouth Freshmen game and as a result of the double attraction, a large crowd was in attendance. The Barnmouth Freshmen were returned the winners in this contest by the score of 34 to 0. Moehrie, Lowell's aggressive right tackle, was ruled out early in the game for alleged roughing and the distance halved to the Lowell goal line. The ball was then given to Manchester, in compliance with the rules, and a drop kick from the toe of Murray resulted shortly afterward.

Moehrie's absence from the Lowell lineup could not be bolstered up. The right tackle is one of the best school-boy tackles playing the game and as soon as he was taken out the Lowell aggression began to weaken. This one feature had a great bearing on the local boys' defeat.

Manchester's two touch downs came as the result of straight football mixed with a few forward passes and a brace of blood-stirring end runs. Captain Connelly and Hurley, the full back, played a spectacular game for Manchester.

Acting Captain Danny Brunelle, Roane and Cahill played a whirlwind game for the local team and tried their hardest to stave off defeat. Brunelle got many tackles behind the line, while both Roane and Cahill broke through and smeared several plays before they were fairly started.

FOR MAYOR

To the Voters:

Tomorrow you will cast your ballot. Your vote will count one. At that time you are in every way equal to the highest and most powerful ones in the city or nation. Do you still wish to have the city under the same control of combines, trusts and gangs? Do you wish to change all this? Then you must vote for ME, the ONE that is entirely free of such influences, under no control of combines or trusts, and cannot be frightened or bought.

I appeal to you then, voters, to help and vote for me.

INGOTS OF GOLD

International Thieves Extracted $20,000 of Consignment

PARIS, Nov. 17.—International thieves succeeded in extracting ingots of gold valued at $20,000 from a consignment of 11,000,000 while it was on the way from Constantinople to Paris, where it arrived on Thursday last. Details of the robbery were made public this afternoon. The gold was sent by the Imperial Ottoman bank at Constantinople to the Ottoman bank here in 49 cases, iron-bound and sealed. The cases when they reached their destination looked from the outside as though they had never been touched, but on being checked at the bank the $20,000 was missing.

FUND TO ENLARGE SYNAGOGUE

A meeting of the officers of the Middlesex Society Synagogue of 132 Howard street, was held for the purpose of finishing the building of the synagogue. This synagogue building was started in 1907 but on account of financial circumstances it could not be finished. The first floor was built and there is not room enough to worship, therefore a nation was passed by the above named society to open and raise a general fund of $10,000 for the purpose of finishing the building so that there will be places for men and women and comfort for all. For the raising of this fund there were appointed officers as follows: David Ziskind, chairman; Simon Gerson, vice chairman; J. Richard B. Siegal, J. Shapiro, I. Olovitz, I. Okune, Israel Goldberg, David Smith, H. Rome, trustees, and Harry Perlman, secretary.

The comfort and pleasure of having a clean, light, airy, sanitary office for your patrons, as well as yourself, makes work easy in the new Sun building.
